Big 3 Spurn Red Ultimatum

Gas Explosions Rip Hotel, Kill 6

All Of Allentown Victims Spectators

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—A series of violent gas explosions tore apart a century-old hotel early Sunday, killing six curious persons attracted to the scene.

The victims were trapped on the first floor porch of the 120-year-old Mountaville Hotel as they watched, fascinated, the gas-fed flames leaping out of a gaping hole in the street directly at them.

Before they could flee the blazing sheet of fire, the 50-foot-high flames engulfed the building just as it was split savagely by an underground blast. The ancient structure of brick and stone collapsed.

Deputy Fire Chief John Butz, directing operations at the frost-covered scene, said at first that nine persons died, but he corrected this later to six. He blamed the first report on confusion.

All six dead were spectators who had taken up positions on the porch to better view the street fire and blasts. None was a patron of the hotel.

At Least 15 Injured

At least fifteen persons were hurt by the fire that resulted, and from the falling debris. They, too, had stood too close watching the burning gas explode in the street.

Tragic though the blasts were, officials said the death toll could have been as high as 50 had the initial explosion come inside the hotel instead of first ripping a hole in Fifth St. at Emmaus Ave. The blast scene is on the outskirts of this southeastern Pennsylvania community 40 miles from Philadelphia.

Most of the 50 patrons in the hotel's bar dashed outside at the sound of the first violent roar. The hotel long has been nothing more than a tavern-restaurant. Its second floor was used as a residence by the owners, Mr. and Mrs. George Andresack.

It was Mrs. Andresack, actually, that started the lucky and swift exodus from her place moments before the main blew up in the street.

"I went to the cellar door after I smelled gas and when I opened it, the odor was very heavy.

"Great Burst Of Flame"

"I yelled to the patrons to get out because I was afraid of an explosion."

"Just about that time, there was a blast in the street and a great burst of flame. They—the bar customers—had just got out when the hotel blew up."

Hundreds of residents were evacuated immediately from their homes. Many returned after dawn when the accumulation of gas had blown away.

Even so, countless hazards faced the police, firemen and residents. Telephone and electric wires lay in massed tangles along several streets. The strong smell of gas could be detected nearly a mile away. Snow, sweeping in from the south, started falling early in the afternoon. This hampered the cleanup.

Youth Accused In Slaying Of 5 Eludes Dragnet

EL CAJON, Calif. (AP)—Police kept the father of four children found murdered with their mother Friday night under prolonged questioning Sunday.

The examination was being conducted at the San Diego police station by criminal investigation experts.

Thomas J. Pendergast, 39, the husband and father, was brought from the county hospital ward Saturday night for the questioning that was continuing Sunday. He had been held in the hospital ward because of his apparently distraught condition.

Investigators said that they were seeking to clarify parts of the story Pendergast has told about his connections with a gangling, pimply-faced teenager, who has been charged with murdering Mrs. Lois Pendergast, 37, and the four children, aged 2 to 9, in their modest El Cajon home.

The youth continued to elude searchers.

He vanished down an alley and seemingly into nowhere shortly before the mutilated bodies of Mrs. Lois Pendergast and her children were found.

Fifty officers, six on horseback, and a U.S. Coast Guard plane searched the heavily brushed Montezuma Canyon area near San Diego State College in East San Diego for two hours early Sunday.

This was not far from the place where the youth disappeared and one, answering his general description, attempted to rent a motel room early Saturday.

The search had also spread across the Mexican border to Tijuana.

The youth, identified by the FBI, as Carl Eder, 16, of the Rochester, N.Y., suburb of Irondequoit, has been named in a five-count murder complaint and in a federal complaint charging flight to avoid prosecution.

Pendergast, San Diego aircraft worker, who had befriended the runaway transient, using the name and age of Charles Harrison, 18, was the last person definitely known to have seen him.

He had been forced at gunpoint to drive the youth into East San Diego.

Pendergast then returned home to find his wife had been shot and slashed and his children stabbed and mutilated.

"I was trying to save the boy from a life of crime," said the stricken father. He said that his wife had been impelled by the same motive to take the youth into their home six weeks ago.

Four Perish When Fire Sweeps Cottage

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP)—Four Chicagoans were killed Sunday when fire destroyed a cottage on Bangs Lake near Wauconda in northeastern Illinois.

The dead were Michael J. Leonardi, 50, a salesman, and his wife, Camille, 48, owners of the cottage, and Frank Tortoriello, 56, a city employe, and his wife, Julia, 46.

Clarence Cainer, chief of the Wauconda volunteer fire department, said the predawn blaze started when an oil space heater exploded or overheated. The cottage was destroyed.

Snow And Ice Storm Moves To Northeast

Warnings Issued; Harsh Cold Grips Most Of Southland

By The Associated Press

A wintry storm which iced and frosted the South spread northeast up the Atlantic seaboard Sunday, but harsh cold gripped most of the Dixie.

The snow pattern, which left much of the southland in an unaccustomed blanket of white, blew northeastward, dropping heavy snow on either side of the southern Appalachians and eastward to the coastline of North Carolina, Virginia and Maryland.

As the first flurries socked New England, the Weather Bureau issued heavy snow warnings for Rhode Island-southeastern Massachusetts. Snow and sub freezing temperatures in New Jersey, and New York made driving hazardous. Police warned against unnecessary travel.

Sunday saw moderate to heavy snow in much of Virginia with the line moving westward from the coast to Morgantown in northern West Virginia. Richmond, Va., had a 4-inch morning snowfall.

The pattern reached into eastern Kentucky. Dry cold winds ended the precipitation through eastern Tennessee and Alabama.

Rain spread through western and central Georgia and South Carolina to southeastern North Carolina and south into northern Florida.

A band of icy conditions, between snow and rain, lay across the southeast from Wilmington, N.C., to Columbia, S. C., and just north of Atlanta, Ga. Many highways were closed.

The southwestward drive of the freezing Arctic air brought a low of 32 to Corpus Christi, Tex., and readings in the 20s along the Louisiana coast.

Zero weather blanketed northern New England and the upper Midwest from Indiana through Iowa and most of Kansas, with a 21 below zero reading near the center of the cold air mass at Minot, N. D.

Chrysler, UAW Fail To Settle Labor Dispute

DETROIT (AP)—An all-night session of negotiators for Chrysler and the United Auto Workers Union failed to settle a 13-day labor dispute that has idled more than 40,000 Chrysler employes.

Negotiations were broken off at 6 a.m. Sunday without a date being set for renewal.

Chrysler Vice President John D. Leary said if the strike continues other thousands of employes will be out of work.

The strike started Dec. 2 at the Dodge Main plant where 7,100 members of UAW Local 3 walked out protesting what they called a speedup in work requirements.

Parts shortages have resulted in widespread layoffs at some other Chrysler plants.

In a statement reporting the breakdown in negotiations, Leary said a settlement was being blocked by the demands of 400 employes in a department that prepares car bodies for painting. He said they were demanding "excessive relief time and the addition of unneeded manpower."

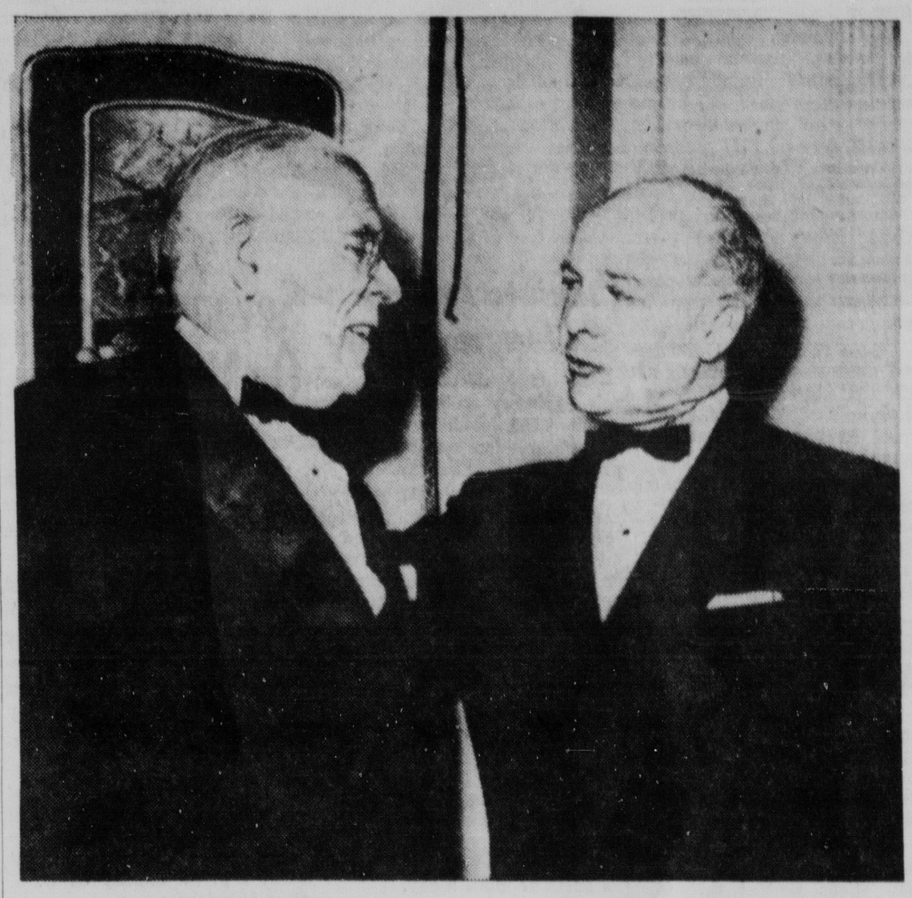

UAW President Walter Reuther's administrative assistant, Jack Conway, told newsmen the company statement did not jibe with "all evidence on the bargaining table."

Dulles Appears In Good Health

PARIS (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles appeared in first class health Sunday, but he is taking precautions after the intestine inflammation that sent him to the hospital last week.

He was described as in good voice at Sunday's Western powers conference on Berlin but he skipped a lunch given by French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville. He also has declined to attend three dinners arranged for the American delegation.

The NATO conference is expected to end Dec. 17. Dulles plans a few days rest in Jamaica before returning to Washington.

Strike Issues Settled By EAL And Mechanics

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Eastern Air Lines Sunday night announced settlement with machinists negotiators of issues in a strike that shut the big carrier down Nov. 24.

The agreement is subject to ratification by membership of the International Assn. of Machinists, whose 5,000 members struck the airline the same day as 600 flight engineers.

Eastern said a meeting with the Flight Engineers International Assn. is scheduled Monday.

Both unions struck in support of demands for improvements in wages and working conditions. The engineers also objected to a company proposal that they take basic pilot training for service on jet airliners which will go into service in 1960.

The company has said flights could be operated without engineers but there was no statement Sunday night that it would attempt to do so.

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, chairman of Eastern's board, said in a statement "I am hopeful that continuing negotiations will also enable us to resolve the differences with the flight engineers so that we can resume services, at the earliest possible date, for the benefit of all —the public, the communities we serve and the nation."

A spokesman for Eastern Air Lines said agreement with the machinists negotiators involved pay raises of 44 to 49 cents an hour in top jobs, which the machinists had requested.

B&O Tree Trimmed

JACKSON, Md. (AP)—The 150-year-old tree the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad has been decorating the past 11 years got its yuletide trim Saturday night.

The 55-foot holly tree glowed with 1,000 Christmas lights and big ornamental balls.

The tree is located near the Susquehanna River Bridge and U. S. Route 40.

Taipaei Sources See Chu Replacing Mao

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Chinese Nationalist sources predicted Sunday that Gen. Chu Teh will succeed Mao Tze-tung as head of the Chinese Communist government in a maneuver to quit unrest on the mainland.

Mao, 65, is stepping down under pressure, these sources say, but is expected to remain boss of the Communist party, though with less power than he now wields.

Nationalist underground agents sent word Saturday that Communist leaders met in Hankow to plan the shakeup for presentation to the People's Congress when the rubber-stamp parliament meets next month in Peiping. It is then that the test of the underground reports should come.

Mao was chosen Red China's chairman—the Western equivalent of president — in September 1954 for a four-year term. At the same time, Chu Teh was elected deputy chairman.

Chu, 72, is a tough professional soldier turned politician, and has strong support in both military and political factions. Speculation on Formosa is that Chu, former commander in chief of the Chinese Communist army, would serve as a stopgap chairman pending establishment of more of a collective leadership.

Mao, architect of the Communist revolution in China, is generally expected to bow out gracefully as head of the government and eventually move into the role of an elder statesman.

Election Probe Decision Due

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special House Campaign Committee decides Monday whether to investigate elections which cost the Democrats the only two House seats they lost in the Nov. 4 voting.

The seats are those of Rep. Brooks Hays of Arkansas and Rep. Coya Knutson of Minnesota.

Hays, a veteran of 16 years in the House, was defeated by Dale Alford, a Democrat who ran as an independent and won in a write-in campaign reportedly backed by Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Mrs. Knutson, a two-termer, lost to Republican Odin Langen after a campaign in which her husband, Andy, pleaded with her to return to her domestic duties in Minnesota.

Hays has not challenged the election which ousted him from Congress, but a formal complaint has been made by John F. Wells, Little Rock publisher, who may testify at Monday's closed session.

Wells charged that state election laws were violated and that in some precincts the number of votes exceeded the number of registered voters.

Mrs. Knutson personally challenged Langen's election. She charged there was a conspiracy backed by Langen's supporters which included publication of a letter written to her by her husband.

Mercy Train Wreck Kills 20 In Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) —A mercy train carrying hundreds of hungry victims out of drought-stricken northern Brazil plunged over an embankment Saturday in the mountains near Fortaleza.

Press reports said at least 20 persons were killed and about 100 injured.

The flight from the parched northlands to Carto, 250 miles southwest of Fortaleza, stemmed from long range weather forecasts of heavy rains in the interior. The Brazilian government paid the fares of many making the trek to find new homes in more fertile lands.

Brazil To Fire Cat Into Space Despite Protests

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) —The Brazilian army went ahead Sunday with plans to launch a rocket containing a cat named Felix—despite protests of U. S. cat lovers. The project calls for shooting an 875-pound rocket up 72 miles and bringing Felix back alive.

The army first announced the project a month ago but then retreated into silence under a barrage of angry letters from up north. But the newspaper Diario de Noticias said Sunday the firing is all set for New Year's Day, from the launching site in Marambaia across the bay from the capital.

Felix will ride in a pressurized chamber in the nose of the 19-foot rocket and wear instruments to record his reactions. He has been undergoing rigorous tests and fed on a strict diet to keep his weight at 7½ pounds.

No Signals Heard From Balloonists On Ocean Flight

SANTA CRUZ DE TENERIFE, Canary Islands (AP) — Amateur radio operators heard no signals Sunday from a group trying to fly a balloon westward across the Atlantic.

Four Britons—three men and a woman—are trying to fly the balloon Small World to Barbados, British West Indies, 3,000 miles away.

They ascended Friday. The last message received was at 5:15 p.m. Saturday. The crew members said then they were doing fine and were about 450 miles southwest of here.

Ike May Fire Back At Demos On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower apparently is going to call on Congress for legislative action that could widen the Democratic split over civil rights.

Eisenhower already has made it clear he wants an extension of life for the Civil Rights Commission which by law must now conclude its work by next Sept. 9.

Defiance by state officials of the commission's subpoena powers in its investigation of voting practices in Alabama indicates that Southerners may be girding for a fight against prolonging its life.

Eisenhower avoided specific comment at last week's White House news conference on other legislation he said was under study in the civil rights field.

But it is the general expectation in administration quarters he will fire back in his State of the Union message at the Democratic Advisory Council's recent criticism that he has not given "constructive leadership" in the school integration controversy.

Some light may be shed on the President's intentions when he canvasses the domestic sections of his message with Republican congressional leaders at a White House conference Monday.

Vice President Nixon has acknowledged that one of the civil rights suggestions that Cabinet members have discussed would call for establishment of a Fair Employment Practices Commission.

Any proposal of this nature would be likely to get the support of Northern Democrats while setting their Southern colleagues off on the warpath, a result the administration obviously wouldn't be averse to seeing happen.

Former President Harry S. Truman's proposal in 1948 for establishment of an FEPC with subpoena powers started the political upheava' that cost him the support of several Dixie states in that year's election.

Southern opposition remains strong to FEPC in any form, including an agency that would have no subpoena power to enforce its orders.

German Reds Renew Attacks On Presley

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German Communists attacked rock 'n' roll singer Elvis Presley Sunday as a Western "Pied Piper of Hamelin" whose singing sounded like the "hooting of a ship-warning buoy."

The official Communist newspaper "Neues Deutschland" charged anew that Presley was a Western "cold war weapon" designed to lure Eastern youth away from Red influence.

It was the latest in a series of Eastern attacks on the singer, now an Army private in West Germany with the 3rd Armored Division.

West Powers Will Maintain Berlin Rights

Ministers Reject Any Idea Of Dealing With East Germans

PARIS (AP)—The Western Big Three foreign ministers Sunday "reaffirmed the determination of their governments to maintain their position and their rights with respect to Berlin, including the right of free access."

The agreement was reached after a long afternoon conference in the French Foreign Office, where the foreign ministers of France, Britain and the United States were joined in midsession by West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano.

The Big Three announced their position in a brief communique afterward.

"They found unacceptable a unilateral repudiation by the Soviet government of its obligations to the governments of France, the United Kingdom and the United States in relation to their presence in Berlin and the freedom of access to that city," it said.

The communique was issued by France, Britain and the United States as signatories of the four-power statutes which govern Berlin. The West Germans have no part in these statutes.

U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd emerged from the three-hour talks without saying a word to newsmen. Von Brentano commented that he felt the talks achieved agreement.

Dulles Reassures Brandt

Dulles told West Berlin's tough-talking Mayor Willy Brandt after the meeting "you dont' need to be worried."

A U.S. spokesman said the meeting entirely rejected the idea of dealing with the East Germans as agents of the Soviet Union on the question of moving supplies into the city.

The communique language bore out that statement in words that said the West rejects the Soviet move to deny the Allies "their freedom of access to that city or the substitution of the German authorities of the Soviet Zone for the Soviet government insofar as those rights are concerned."

The West Germans, who refuse to deal on most questions with the East German regime, hailed this as a victory for their viewpoint.

The refusal by the West to deal with the East Germans seemingly leaves no alternative but force to insure access to West Berlin if the Russians insist on turning over all air and land controls to the East Germans in six months.

Brandt, who a week ago overwhelmingly won re-election as mayor of free West Berlin, came without an invitation. He told the foreign ministers Western firmness on Berlin is the best guarantee for peace.

Informal Talks Slated

Informal talks during the week are expected to shape the Western power's next steps. Von Brentano said after the session future high-level talks cannot be ruled out.

Left in the air by the communique was the exact form in which the three powers will reply to the Soviet note of Nov. 27, in which Premier Nikita Khrushchev proposed making Berlin a demilitarized free city.

30 Slightly Hurt In Train Wreck

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (UPI)— Two Hudson and Manhattan railroad trains collided near the Journal Square Station early Sunday, slightly injuring 30 persons.

The accident occurred at 3:43 a.m. when a three-car train from 33rd Street, Manhattan, stopped 1,000 feet from Journal Square to allow a freight train to pass.

The halted train was struck in the rear by a two-car train traveling from the Hudson Terminal on Church Street, Manhattan, police said.

Thirty persons were taken to Jersey City Medical Center with minor injuries, according to police. Only conductor Charles Furlong, 45, of Lindenhurst, Long Island, was detained for further observation and X-rays.

Furlong, who suffered back injuries, was in the stopped train.

Police said the brakes of the second train, which was moving at 15 miles an hour, apparently had failed. But after a preliminary investigation, railroad general superintendent J. C. Warren said tests indicated the signals and brakes had been functioning normally.

Pope Will Elevate 23 To Purple Today, Ending Limit Of 70 Set 372 Years Ago

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII presides at a solemn and secret consistory Monday to create 23 new cardinals, thereby increasing membership of the Roman Catholic Church's senate body to 74, highest in history.

The new princes of the Church, including two from the United States, come from nine nations. Thirteen are Italians. Their elevation will break the sacred college limit of 70 set by Pope Sixtus V in 1586, when the world's population was 360 million. Today, amid the globe's booming population, the Roman Catholic Church claims a membership of 500 million.

In his address to present cardinals in Monday's consistory, Pope John is expected to cite reasons that impelled him to increase the membership of the College of Cardinals. Obvious ones are expanding membership of the Church throughout the world and increased burdens of administration.

It is also possible Pope John may declare his intention to increase the college even further in another consistory.

With the new cardinals, Roman Catholics in 27 nations will be represented in the college, as high a number of nations as there ever has been.

Scene of the secret consistory will be the Consistory Hall of the Vatican Palace, a 100-foot-long, high-ceilinged chamber built by Pope Clement VIII at the end of the 16th century.

Here, Pope John will be seated on a throne to give an allocution in Latin to assembled members of the current College of Cardinals. The 77-year-old pontiff, crowned only six weeks ago, will ask: "Quid vobis videtur" — what do you think of it?

Each of the cardinals present will rise, bow and solemnly remove his skull cap, thus indicating approval. They will speak no word. From that moment, the new cardinals—awaiting official notification in various parts of Rome—are members of the sacred college.

The United States cardinals-designate, Richard James Cushing, 63-year-old archbishop of Boston, and frail-looking but tough John F. O'Hara, 70-year-old archbishop of Philadelphia, will wait at the North American Pontifical College for the "biglietto" that will officially notify them they are princes of the Roman Catholic Church.

Bankers Urge Tax Boost If Budget Not Balanced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Bankers Assn. Sunday called for a broad tax increase if the next budget cannot be balanced by cuts in federal spending.

The association's Economic Policy Commission issued a statement saying that deficit spending must be halted "to strengthen confidence here and abroad in the future value of the dollar."

There is no certainty, the statement said, that the budget which President Eisenhower will send to Congress next month for the fiscal year starting July 1 can be balanced even if business activity continues to rise.

"Our fiscal situation has now become a serious inflationary threat to our economy," the statement said.

"The tax burden is already heavy, and we know from past experience how hard it is to curb governmental expenditures.

"If, however, the administration and the Congress are unable or unwilling to hold expenditures down to the level of realistically estimated revenues for fiscal 1960, then revenues should be increased to cover expenditures—in other words, taxes should be raised.

"This of course would be painful but far less painful than the consequences of continued deficit spending."

The commission, headed by Jesse W. Tapp, board chairman of the Bank of America, Los Angeles, includes the executives of a dozen major banks across the country.

Strike Issues Settled By EAL And Mechanics

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Eastern Air Lines Sunday night announced settlement with machinists negotiators of issues in a strike that shut the big carrier down Nov. 24.

The agreement is subject to ratification by membership of the International Assn. of Machinists, whose 5,000 members struck the airline the same day as 600 flight engineers.

Eastern said a meeting with the Flight Engineers International Assn. 's scheduled Monday.

Both unions struck in support of demands for improvements in wages and working conditions. The engineers also objected to a company proposal that they take basic pilot training for service on jet airliners which will go into service in 1960.

The company has said flights could be operated without engineers but there was no statement Sunday night that it would attempt to do so.

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, chairman of Eastern's board, said in a statement "I am hopeful that continuing negotiations will also enable us to resolve the differences with the flight engineers so that we can resume services, at the earliest possible date, for the benefit of all –the public, the communities we serve and the nation."

A spokesman for Eastern Air Lines said agreement with the machinists negotiators involved pay raises of 44 to 49 cents an hour in top jobs, which the machinists had requested.

B&O Tree Trimmed

JACKSON, Md. (AP)—The 150-year-old tree the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad has been decorating the past 11 years got its yuletide trim Saturday night.

The 55-foot holly tree glowed with 1,000 Christmas lights and big ornamental balls.

The tree is located near the Susquehanna River Bridge and U. S. Route 40.

Taipaei Sources See Chu Replacing Mao

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Chinese Nationalist sources predicted Sunday that Gen. Chu Teh will succeed Mao Tze-tung as head of the Chinese Communist government in a maneuver to quit unrest on the mainland.

Mao, 65, is stepping down under pressure, these sources say, but is expected to remain boss of the Communist party, though with less power than he now wields.

Nationalist underground agents sent word Saturday that Communist leaders met in Hankow to plan the shakeup for presentation to the People's Congress when the rubber-stamp parliament meets next month in Peiping. It is then that the test of the underground reports should come.

Mao was chosen Red China's chairman—the Western equivalent of president — in September 1954 for a four-year term. At the same time, Chu Teh was elected deputy chairman.

Chu, 72, is a tough professional soldier turned politician, and has strong support in both military and political factions. Speculation on Formosa is that Chu, former commander in chief of the Chinese Communist army, would serve as a stopgap chairman pending establishment of more of a collective leadership.

Mao, architect of the Communist revolution in China, is generally expected to bow out gracefully as head of the government and eventually move into the role of an elder statesman.

Election Probe Decision Due

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special House Campaign Committee decides Monday whether to investigate elections which cost the Democrats the only two House seats they lost in the Nov. 4 voting.

The seats are those of Rep. Brooks Hays of Arkansas and Rep. Coya Knutson of Minnesota.

Hays, a veteran of 16 years in the House, was defeated by Dale Alford, a Democrat who ran as an independent and won in a write-in campaign reportedly backed by Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Mrs. Knutson, a two-termer, lost to Republican Odin Langen after a campaign in which her husband, Andy, pleaded with her to return to her domestic duties in Minnesota.

Hays has not challenged the election which ousted him from Congress, but a formal complaint has been made by John F. Wells, Little Rock publisher, who may testify at Monday's closed session.

Wells charged that state election laws were violated and that in some precincts the number of votes exceeded the number of registered voters.

Mrs. Knutson personally challenged Langen's election. She charged there was a conspiracy backed by Langen's supporters which included publication of a letter written to her by her husband.

Mercy Train Wreck Kills 20 In Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—A mercy train carrying hundreds of hungry victims out of drought-stricken northern Brazil plunged over an embankment Saturday in the mountains near Fortaleza.

Press reports said at least 20 persons were killed and about 100 injured.

The flight from the parched northlands to Carto, 250 miles southwest of Fortaleza, stemmed from long range weather forecasts of heavy rains in the interior. The Brazilian government paid the fares of many making the trek to find new homes in more fertile lands.

Pope Will Elevate 23 To Purple Today, Ending Limit Of 70 Set 372 Years Ago

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII presides at a solemn and secret consistory Monday to create 23 new cardinals, thereby increasing membership of the Roman Catholic Church's senate body to 74, highest in history.

The new princes of the Church, including two from the United States, come from nine nations. Thirteen are Italians. Their elevation will break the sacred college limit of 70 set by Pope Sixtus V in 1586, when the world's population was 360 million. Today, amid the globe's booming population, the Roman Catholic Church claims a membership of 500 million.

In his address to present cardinals in Monday's consistory, Pope John is expected to cite reasons that impelled him to increase the membership of the College of Cardinals. Obvious ones are expanding membership of the Church throughout the world and increased burdens of administration.

It is also possible Pope John may declare his intention to increase the college even further in another consistory.

With the new cardinals, Roman Catholics in 27 nations will be represented in the college, as high a number of nations as there ever has been.

Scene of the secret consistory will be the Consistory Hall of the Vatican Palace, a 100-foot-long, high-ceilinged chamber built by Pope Clement VIII at the end of the 16th century.

Here, Pope John will be seated on a throne to give an allocution in Latin to assembled members of the current College of Cardinals. The 77-year-old pontiff, crowned only six weeks ago, will ask: "Quid vobis videtur" — what do you think of it?

Each of the cardinals present will rise, bow and solemnly remove his skull cap, thus indicating approval. They will speak no word. From that moment, the new cardinals—awaiting official notification in various parts of Rome—are members of the sacred college.

The United States cardinals-designate, Richard James Cushing, 63-year-old archbishop of Boston, and frail-looking but tough John F. O'Hara, 70-year-old archbishop of Philadelphia, will wait at the North American Pontifical College for the "bigliettos" that will officially notify them they are princes of the Roman Catholic Church.

No Signals Heard From Balloonists On Ocean Flight

Four Britons—three men and a woman—are trying to fly the balloon Small World to Barbados, British West Indies, 3,000 miles away.

They ascended Friday. The last message received was at 5:15 p.m. Saturday. The crew members said then they were doing fine and were about 450 miles southwest of here.

Ike May Fire Back At Demos On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower apparently is going to call on Congress for legislative action that could widen the Democratic split over civil rights.

Eisenhower already has made it clear he wants an extension of life for the Civil Rights Commission which by law must now conclude its work by next Sept. 9.

Defiance by state officials of the commission's subpoena powers in its investigation of voting practices in Alabama indicates that Southerners may be girding for a fight against prolonging its life.

Eisenhower avoided specific comment at last week's White House news conference on other legislation he said was under study in the civil rights field.

But it is the general expectation in administration quarters he will fire back in his State of the Union message at the Democratic Advisory Council's recent criticism that he has not given "constructive leadership" in the school integration controversy.

Some light may be shed on the President's intentions when he canvasses the domestic sections of his message with Republican congressional leaders at a White House conference Monday.

Vice President Nixon has acknowledged that one of the civil rights suggestions that Cabinet members have discussed would call for establishment of a Fair Employment Practices Commission.

Any proposal of this nature would be likely to get the support of Northern Democrats while setting their Southern colleagues off on the warpath, a result the administration obviously wouldn't be averse to seeing happen.

Former President Harry S. Truman's proposal in 1948 for establishment of an FEPC with subpoena powers started the political upheava' that cost him the support of several Dixie states in that year's election.

Southern opposition remains strong to FEPC in any form, including an agency that would have no subpoena power to enforce its orders.

Brazil To Fire Cat Into Space Despite Protests

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) —The Brazilian army went ahead Sunday with plans to launch a rocket containing a cat named Felix—despite protests of U. S. cat lovers. The project calls for shooting an 875-pound rocket up 72 miles and bringing Felix back alive.

The army first announced the project a month ago but then retreated into silence under a barrage of angry letters from up north. But the newspaper Diario de Noticias said Sunday the firing is all set for New Year's Day, from the launching site in Marambaia across the bay from the capital.

Felix will ride in a pressurized chamber in the nose of the 19-foot rocket and wear instruments to record his reactions. He has been undergoing rigorous tests and fed on a strict diet to keep his weight at 7½ pounds.

German Reds Renew Attacks On Presley

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German Communists attacked rock 'n' roll singer Elvis Presley Sunday as a Western "Pied Piper of Hamelin" whose singing sounded like the "hooting of a ship-warning buoy."

The official Communist newspaper "Neues Deutschland" charged anew that Presley was a Western "cold war weapon" designed to lure Eastern youth away from Red influence.

It was the latest in a series of Eastern attacks on the singer, now an Army private in West Germany with the 3rd Armored Division.

Bankers Urge Tax Boost If Budget Not Balanced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Bankers Assn. Sunday called for a broad tax increase if the next budget cannot be balanced by cuts in federal spending.

The association's Economic Policy Commission issued a statement saying that deficit spending must be halted "to strengthen confidence here and abroad in the future value of the dollar."

There is no certainty, the statement said, that the budget which President Eisenhower will send to Congress next month for the fiscal year starting July 1 can be balanced even if business activity continues to rise.

"Our fiscal situation has now become a serious inflationary threat to our economy," the statement said.

"The tax burden is already heavy, and we know from past experience how hard it is to curb governmental expenditures.

"If, however, the administration and the Congress are unable or unwilling to hold expenditures down to the level of realistically estimated revenues for fiscal 1960, then revenues should be increased to cover expenditures—in other words, taxes should be raised.

"This of course would be painful but far less painful than the consequences of continued deficit spending."

The commission, headed by Jesse W. Tapp, board chairman of the Bank of America, Los Angeles, includes the executives of a dozen major banks across the country.

West Powers Will Maintain Berlin Rights

Ministers Reject Any Idea Of Dealing With East Germans

PARIS (AP)—The Western Big Three foreign ministers Sunday "reaffirmed the determination of their governments to maintain their position and their rights with respect to Berlin, including the right of free access."

The agreement was reached after a long afternoon conference in the French Foreign Office, where the foreign ministers of France, Britain and the United States were joined in midsession by West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano.

The Big Three announced their position in a brief communique afterward.

"They found unacceptable a unilateral repudiation by the Soviet government of its obligations to the governments of France, the United Kingdom and the United States in relation to their presence in Berlin and the freedom of access to that city," it said.

The communique was issued by France, Britain and the United States as signatories of the four-power statutes which govern Berlin. The West Germans have no part in these statutes.

U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd emerged from the three-hour talks without saying a word to newsmen. Von Brentano commented that he felt the talks achieved agreement.

Dulles Reassures Brandt

Dulles told West Berlin's tough-talking Mayor Willy Brandt after the meeting "you dont' need to be worried."

A U.S. spokesman said the meeting entirely rejected the idea of dealing with the East Germans as agents of the Soviet Union on the question of moving supplies into the city.

The communique language bore out that statement in words that said the West rejects the Soviet move to deny the Allies "their freedom of access to that city or the substitution of the German authorities of the Soviet Zone for the Soviet government insofar as those rights are concerned."

The West Germans, who refuse to deal on most questions with the East German regime, hailed this as a victory for their viewpoint.

The refusal by the West to deal with the East Germans seemingly leaves no alternative but force to insure access to West Berlin if the Russians insist on turning over all air and land controls to the East Germans in six months.

Brandt, who a week ago overwhelmingly won re-election as mayor of free West Berlin, came without an invitation. He told the foreign ministers Western firmness on Berlin is the best guarantee for peace.

Informal Talks Slated

Informal talks during the week are expected to shape the Western power's next steps. Von Brentano said after the session future high-level talks cannot be ruled out.

Left in the air by the communique was the exact form in which the three powers will reply to the Soviet note of Nov. 27, in which Premier Nikita Khrushchev proposed making Berlin a demilitarized free city.

30 Slightly Hurt In Train Wreck

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (UPI)—Two Hudson and Manhattan railroad trains collided near the Journal Square Station early Sunday, slightly injuring 30 persons.

The accident occurred at 3:43 a.m. when a three-car train from 33rd Street, Manhattan, stopped 1,000 feet from Journal Square to allow a freight train to pass.

The halted train was struck in the rear by a two-car train traveling from the Hudson Terminal on Church Street, Manhattan, police said.

Thirty persons were taken to Jersey City Medical Center with minor injuries, according to police. Only conductor Charles Furlong, 45, of Lindenhurst, Long Island, was detained for further observation and X-rays.

Furlong, who suffered back injuries, was in the stopped train.

Police said the brakes of the second train, which was moving at 15 miles an hour, apparently had failed. But after a preliminary investigation, railroad general superintendent J. C. Warren said tests indicated the signals and brakes had been functioning normally.

Upsurge Reported In Red Sub Activity Off U.S. East Coast

LONDON (AP) — An upsurge in Soviet submarine activity in the Atlantic and off the eastern coast of the United States is reported by Jane's "Fighting Ships."

The authoritative guide to the world's sea power says the reason is that the Russian fleet needs intensive training to catch up with U.S. naval power if it is to cut West Europe's lifelines to North America in event of war.

Jane's new edition is out Monday. It has been published annually for more than 60 years, listing all that is known of the world's navies. It gets assistance from most countries' naval departments —but not the Russian.

Jane complimented the United States for foresight in spending lavishly on nuclear submarines.

It said the Nautilus and its sister ships have set off a revolution in naval thinking and have made intensive undersea warfare a certainty in any future war.

Jane said Russia now seems to have 500 submarines—the United States has 200—but the Soviet Union is not turning them out at the same rate as two years ago.

Instead, Russia is believed turning its plants over to the manufacture of new types of submarines with improved propulsion and more lethal weapons.

"Russian leaders have already forecast the appearance of guided missile cruisers and destroyers, and there is evidence that Russian marine engineering and shipbuilding resources are being concentrated on nuclear-powered vessels," Jane said.

"In recent months it has become clear that the over-all technological lead which the United States held over Russia is diminishing. Russia is now a first-class naval power, second only to the United States."

Woman Slain By Strangler

BALTIMORE (AP)—A 60-year-old practical nurse and housekeeper went out to sweep the sidewalk Sunday morning. An hour later, she was found strangled.

Police said there were no signs of a struggle or wounds except for small scratches on the neck of Mrs. Lottie R. Kight. Capt. Millard B. Horton said her hands were clenched and bloody, leading police to believe she might have scratched her assailant.

She was fully dressed except for her bedroom slippers. Police found a trail of tiny blood spots leading along an alley beside the house.

Mrs. Kight lived in a house in Northeast Baltimore and cared for an invalid woman. Her daughter, Norma Lee, 19, said her mother went outside about 6:30 a.m. The daughter, surprised she was taking so long, went out at 7:30 and found a broom, dustpan and bucket Mrs. Kight was using, along with her slippers.

She called police and they found the body in a backyard two doors away.

Sen. Humphrey Doubts Russia Will Go To War

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) said Sunday he doubts that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will go to war about Berlin because his satellite states are too unreliable.

Humphrey, who recently interviewed Khrushchev for eight hours in the Kremlin, said he doubts that force will be necessary if the United States and its allies stand firm on the Berlin question.

If the Western powers sufficiently impress Khrushchev with their determination to remain in Berlin, the Soviet Premier will be more receptive to "sensible discussion," Humphrey said. He was interviewed on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" program.

The senator suggested that the United States and its allies must agree on their position regarding the Soviet proposal that all powers withdraw their troops from Berlin.

"Even if the Russians withdraw, we must stay," Humphrey said. He also suggested that all corridors to Western troops in Berlin must remain open from outside areas.

He emphasized that Berlin must not be compromised away. He described the Western sectors of the German city, 110 miles within the Iron Curtain, as an oasis of freedom in a desert of darkness.

East Germany, Poland Aim Blasts At West

BERLIN (AP)—East Germany and Poland joined Sunday in a propaganda barrage aimed at ousting Allied troops from West Berlin and blocking West German rearmament.

On the eve of an Atlantic pact parley in Paris, the two Communist nations warned that world peace hinges on acceptance of the Soviet proposal to convert West Berlin into a demilitarized free city.

"He who says no to the Soviet proposals wants a world war. That is the brutal truth," declared Neues Deutschland, East Germany's Communist party organ.

"To assure peace and security, Poland gives its full support to the Soviet proposal," said Polish party boss Wladyslaw Gomulka in a Warsaw speech.

Strike Mediator Arrives In Newspaperless N. Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—The chief of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service met Sunday with both sides in New York City's six-day-old newspaper strike. But the conference was only a briefing session for the new mediator, and no negotiations were held.

Negotiations will not be resumed until sometime Monday between the striking Newspaper and Mail Deliverers Union and the Publishers Assn. of New York City, which represents the city's nine major dailies.

The briefing session was held for Joseph F. Finnegan, national director of the Mediation and Conciliation Service, and for Walter Maggiolo, director of the service's mediation activities. Both came Sunday from Washington.

"I did not arrive from Washington in a snow storm this afternoon with any magic formula or to pull a rabbit out of the hat," said Finnegan. "The solution of this dispute rests with the parties."

After Saturday night's negotiations ended each side blamed the other for continuation of the multi-million-dollar shutdown at the height of Christmas shopping season when the newspapers would normally be heavy with advertising.

Sunday just wasn't the same for New Yorkers deprived of their favorite newspapers. And the weather didn't help. Extreme cold kept many indoors and they found time on their hands—time that would have been spent giving their newspapers a good going-over.

Radio and television stations stepped up news programs in an attempt to fill the void. Out-of-town newspapers were imported and news summary sheets were issued by some concerns.

Soviets At Pole Of Inaccessibility

LONDON (AP)—Soviet antarctic explorers have reached the Pole of Inaccessibility and set up an observation station, Moscow radio announced Sunday.

The pole—deep in the antarctic land mass 600 miles from the real South Pole on a line with the Indian Ocean—got its colorful name for being the spot regarded by explorers as the most difficult to reach overland.

The Soviet expedition of 18 members covered 1,366 miles over ice and snow to get to the remote position, starting from the Russian Mirny Observatory in the antarctic, Radio Moscow said.

They set out Dec. 3 in a sled and four tractors. According to statistical data received in Moscow, they covered ground never before trodden by man at a speed of about 97 miles a day.

West Powers

to be another maneuver to embroil the West in further broad-scale diplomatic battles over a cold war settlement. The West Germans wanted this Russian move rejected out of hand but the British had wanted to leave the door open for further negotiation. This difference appeared unsettled on the basis of the communique.

The communique said the four Western foreign ministers "found themselves in agreement on the basic issues to be dealt with in replies to those (Soviet) notes. They will consult with their allies in the NATO council, following which the four governments will formulate their replies."

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization annual meeting of foreign ministers begins in Paris Tuesday. The Berlin meetings Sunday were especially called to allow the big powers to come to agreement prior to the NATO sessions.

Seven Killed On Md. Roads

By The Associated Press

Accidents killed two persons in Maryland Sunday, raising the state's highway death toll for the weekend to seven.

Montgomery County police said Everett V. Estes Jr., 16, of Gaithersburg, died when his speeding automobile left Maryland 117 between Germantown and Boyds and crashed into a stone wall. Three others in the car were injured.

Mrs. Edna Sternberger, 71, of Philadelphia, was dead on arrival at Harford Memorial Hospital in Havre de Grace after an accident about 1 p. m. Sunday on U. S. 40 in Aberdeen.

Her husband Jesse L. Sternberger, also 71, suffered a fractured nose and fractured ribs. The hospital said his condition was fair. Their daughter, Janet, 37, was not hospitalized.

U.S. Attorneys Alerted To Mail Swindle Growth

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers Sunday announced all U. S. attorneys have been alerted to a growing number of swindles being used throughout the country. The prosecutors were instructed to move in wherever federal criminal laws are violated.

Officials noted that federal jurisdiction develops most frequently when the swindler uses the mails. For this reason, the U. S. attorneys were instructed to work closely with the postal inspection service.

Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield said recently that all sorts of novel mail frauds were taking a multimillion-dollar toll from the public.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Malcolm Anderson, in charge of the Criminal Division, said some of the most frequently used frauds involve:

Offers to act as agents, on an advance fee basis, for a small businessman desiring to sell his business or seeking new financing.

The sale of vending machines for candy, peanuts and similar items by grossly exaggerating possible profits.

Work-at-home schemes in which the swindler offers to sell the necessary equipment; often used to victimize the aged and infirm.

The easy-to-win contests which offer a cash prize for solving some relatively simple problem. The "winners" frequently find the prize is only a credit against the inflated purchase price of some article of merchandise.

"I did not arrive from Washington in a snow storm this afternoon with any magic formula or to pull a rabbit out of the hat," said Finnegan. "The solution of this dispute rests with the parties."

After Saturday night's negotiations ended each side blamed the other for continuation of the multi-million-dollar shutdown at the height of Christmas shopping season when the newspapers would normally be heavy with advertising.

Sunday just wasn't the same for New Yorkers deprived of their favorite newspapers. And the weather didn't help. Extreme cold kept many indoors and they found time on their hands—time that would have been spent giving their newspapers a good going-over.

Radio and television stations stepped up news programs in an attempt to fill the void. Out-of-town newspapers were imported and news summary sheets were issued by some concerns.

Soviets At Pole Of Inaccessibility

LONDON (AP)—Soviet antarctic explorers have reached the Pole of Inaccessibility and set up an observation station, Moscow radio announced Sunday.

The pole—deep in the antarctic land mass 600 miles from the real South Pole on a line with the Indian Ocean—got its colorful name for being the spot regarded by explorers as the most difficult to reach overland.

The Soviet expedition of 18 members covered 1,366 miles over ice and snow to get to the remote position, starting from the Russian Mirny Observatory in the antarctic, Radio Moscow said.

They set out Dec. 3 in a sled and four tractors. According to statistical data received in Moscow, they covered ground never before trodden by man at a speed of about 97 miles a day.

to be another maneuver to embroil the West in further broad-scale diplomatic battles over a cold war settlement. The West Germans wanted this Russian move rejected out of hand but the British had wanted to leave the door open for further negotiation. This difference appeared unsettled on the basis of the communique.

The communique said the four Western foreign ministers "found themselves in agreement on the basic issues to be dealt with in replies to those (Soviet) notes. They will consult with their allies in the NATO council, following which the four governments will formulate their replies."

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization annual meeting of foreign ministers begins in Paris Tuesday. The Berlin meetings Sunday were especially called to allow the big powers to come to agreement prior to the NATO sessions.

Seven Killed On Md. Roads

By The Associated Press

Accidents killed two persons in Maryland Sunday, raising the state's highway death toll for the weekend to seven.

Montgomery County police said Everett V. Estes Jr., 16, of Gaithersburg, died when his speeding automobile left Maryland 117 between Germantown and Boyds and crashed into a stone wall. Three others in the car were injured.

Mrs. Edna Sternberger, 71, of Philadelphia, was dead on arrival at Harford Memorial Hospital in Havre de Grace after an accident about 1 p. m. Sunday on U. S. 40 in Aberdeen.

Her husband Jesse L. Sternberger, also 71, suffered a fractured nose and fractured ribs. The hospital said his condition was fair. Their daughter, Janet, 37, was not hospitalized.

U.S. Attorneys Alerted To Mail Swindle Growth

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers Sunday announced all U. S. attorneys have been alerted to a growing number of swindles being used throughout the country. The prosecutors were instructed to move in wherever federal criminal laws are violated.

Officials noted that federal jurisdiction develops most frequently when the swindler uses the mails. For this reason, the U. S. attorneys were instructed to work closely with the postal inspection service.

Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield said recently that all sorts of novel mail frauds were taking a multimillion-dollar toll from the public.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Malcolm Anderson, in charge of the Criminal Division, said some of the most frequently used frauds involve:

Offers to act as agents, on an advance fee basis, for a small businessman desiring to sell his business or seeking new financing.

The sale of vending machines for candy, peanuts and similar items by grossly exaggerating possible profits.

Work-at-home schemes in which the swindler offers to sell the necessary equipment; often used to victimize the aged and infirm.

The easy-to-win contests which offer a cash prize for solving some relatively simple problem. The "winners" frequently find the prize is only a credit against the inflated purchase price of some article of merchandise.

Poland Cuts Prices

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Poles who did their Christmas shopping early are gnashing their teeth Sunday: the government decreed an average 30 per cent price cut, effective Monday.

Five Men Held Following Brawl

BOONSBORO, Md. (AP)—Five men are charged with assaulting a constable and state trooper in a brawl sparked by ejection of one of the men from a square dance.

Both Constable W. O. Lum and Trooper Clyde B. Tucker were injured in the melee Friday night. It occurred during a square dance at the Boonsboro Livestock Sales Auction building here.

Lum was beaten with his own blackjack and Tucker suffered a splintered bone in his right hand.

Charged with assault are Joseph Martin, 22, Boonsboro; James L. Smith, 20, Chewsville; and the following Hagerstown men: Kenneth Leedy, 22, his brother Charles, 19, and Richard Hall, 22.

Smith and Martin, handcuffed, escaped from the arresting officers but were arrested later, one in his home and the other in a silo. They had sawed the cuffs in two.

No Injuries As Tank Of Acid Explodes

COCKEYSVILLE, Md. (AP)—A tankful of acid exploded outside a chemical plant Saturday night but there were no personal injuries and the damage was slight.

The blast knocked down two tile ceilings inside one of the company's two buildings, and 96 window panes were blown out. Also knocked out were some windows in residences within 1,000 yards of the Maryland Pigment and Research Corp. plant.

The explosion occurred early Saturday evening at this Baltimore County town about 10 miles north of Baltimore.

President Kenneth S. Mowlds said the blast originated in a tank of acid about 10 feet in diameter and 15 feet high. He attributed it to spontaneous combustion.

The company makes zinc chloride, a basic raw material in flame-retardant paints.

THREE PERSONS DROWN

MANILA (UPI) —Three persons drowned and an unknown number were missing in the sinking Sunday of the converted minesweeper Hiawatha in a storm off Surigao Island, 480 miles south of here, it was reported. A rescue vessel picked up 17 passengers and 10 crewmen.

The weight of the atmosphere of the earth has been estimated to be in excess of five quadrillion tons.

CURBSTONE JUSTICE—The lady is paying a traffic violation fine in Philadelphia, where new "one-armed ticket meters" mete out curbstone justice at the scene of the crime. Two Mine Disasters On Successive Days West Virginia's Top News Story Of 1958

By J. RICHARD TOREN
United Press International

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Two mine disasters on consecutive days — the first time in history the state's biggest industry had suffered major blows in such quick succession — made West Virginia's top news story of 1958.

Tragedy first struck the big Bishop mine of Pocahontas Fuel Co. some 30 miles south of Welch, killing 22 men in the same underground diggings where 37 men died in another explosion on Feb. 4, 1957.

That was at 8:30 a. m., Oct. 27. At 10:30 the following morning, a series of three gas explosions ripped through the Burton mine of Ogleby - Norton Coal Co. near Richwood, about 100 miles north of Bishop. Thirteen men died underground and one succumbed later in a hospital.

UPI newsmen chose these two disasters, considered as one story, as West Virginia's biggest "spot news" of the year. Spot news is differentiated from continuing stories like elections, political campaigns and legislative sessions.

Next in order were:

2. Sen. M. M. Neely dies.
3. Dynamite blast wreck Osage school.
4. Mine Workers sign new contract.
5. Spring floods hit southern West Virginia.
6. Police nab bank embezzler W. G. Potter.
7. VWU names Elvis Stahr president.
8. Record cold hits state in February.
9. Burkhamer escapes chair after 8-month battle.
10. Supreme Court rulings on school finance.

The Bishop mine, one of the industry's most modern, is named after the nearby community of Bishop, Va. But it's officially a West Virginia mine because the main mouth is on the West Virginis side of the state line.

The blast last October occurred only 1,500 feet from the site of the explosion 22 months earlier. Apparently killed instantly were 14 men who had just arrived for the day shift and 8 night trick workers waiting to be relieved. Another 166 men escaped with their lives.

The Burton mine is much smaller, employing some 50 men on the day shift. Seventeen of them were in the explosion area and 13 were killed outright. Rescue crews brought out four others alive, but one of them died of burns two days later.

Neely Dies At 83

On Jan. 4, death removed Sen. Matthew M. Neely from a West Virginia political scene he had largely dominated for some 30 or more years. Neely succumbed to cancer at the age of 83 while serving his fifth term in the U.S. Senate.

His political career started in 1908 with his election as mayor of Fairmont and included five terms in the House, five in the Senate and a term as governor from 1941 to 1945.

The explosion of an estimated 150 pounds of dynamite wrecked a 17-room school at Osage near Morgantown Nov. 10 and shattered the relative calm that had marked the integration of white and Negro pupils in West Virginia.

Authorities at first inclined to the belief that out-of-staters were responsible for the early - morning blast — since integration had been effected at Osage without incident. But they later arrested a local suspect pending investigation.

The United Mine workers union signed a new contract with bituminous operators early in December, providing a $2 daily wage hike and a revolutionary clause prohibiting commercial operators from handling non-union coal. It replaced a 1950 pact which had been modified in 1956 to provide a pay increase.

Several weeks of nearly steady rain caused one of the worst late-spring floods on record in southern West Virginia in May. The Tug and Guyan River areas in southern West Virginia were hit hardest. A flooded waste pond burst into a Logan County mine, blocking the exit and trapping 24 men. It was 17 hours later before rescue workers led the men to safety.

Seventeen persons died and transportation was nearly paralyzed by a snow storm that accompanied the state's worst February cold wave in 55 years. Schools were shut down in 20 counties as the mercury stayed below freezing for a record 12 straight days.

A confessed rape-slayer won a commutation of his death sentence — on grounds of probably insanity — after eight months of legal maneuvering that started just a few days before his scheduled execution last Feb. 14. The governor intervened to save James Burkhamer of Clarksburg after he exhausted appeals to the state and U. S. Supreme Courts.

Public schools,always in need of money, suffered setbacks at the hands of the State Supreme Court in two decisions handed down June 17. The court ruled unconstitutional a 1957 law allowing school boards to impose a tax on property transfers, and held that no class of property — such as bank stock — could be assessed for property taxes at a rate higher than other classes.

Runaway Banker Nabbed

An alert policeman, his suspicions aroused by a crude disguise, nabbed fugitive bank casher Garland Potter in Charleston March 10. Potter had been sought since the previous August when he absconded with $32,000 from the Bank of Mt. Hope. He drew a four-year prison term.

The University Board of Governors chose youthful Elvis J .Stahr vice chancellor at Pitt, to succeed Irvin Stewart as WVU president. A Rhodes scholar and one -time practicing lawyer, Stahr is former dean of the Kentucky law school. He will take over Feb. 1.

Virginian Charged With Stealing Taxi

CATONSVILLE, Md. (AP)—A young Virginian is charged with pulling a gun on a Baltimore taxi driver, then robbing him of his cab.

Baltimore County police brought the charges against Theodore Vaughan, 19, of Luray, Va., who was arrested by a state trooper at the Frederick Fairgrounds Saturday.

Vaughan led police on a chase from Baltimore to the Frederick area, where he streaked for the woods. An extensive manhunt snuffed him out.

Cab driver Milton Cymek, 53, told police he picked up a fare at a Baltimore bus terminal Friday night and was instructed to drive to the city line.

The thug later pulled a gun, tried to rob Cymek of money but refused coins which the cabbie said was all he had. The gunman then took the cab, ordering Cymek to get out.

Fire Routs Policeman, Family From Home

GAITHERSBURG, Md. (AP) — A Montgomery County policeman and his family were driven from their home Saturday night by a fire which gutted the frame structure.

Firemen said a defective oil stove line apparently started the blaze which left police Pvt. Fred Hilton, his wife, and two small children homeless.

The Montgomery County Police Assn. began a drive Sunday for contributions of clothing and money for the Hilton family.

Neely Dies At 83

On Jan. 4, death removed Sen. Matthew M. Neely from a West Virginia political scene he had largely dominated for some 30 or more years. Neely succumbed to cancer at the age of 83 while serving his fifth term in the U.S. Senate.

His political career started in 1908 with his election as mayor of Fairmont and included five terms in the House, five in the Senate and a term as governor from 1941 to 1945.

Humphrey's 'Secrets' From Khrushchev

It is doubtful whether anyone ever squeezed more political mileage out of a single conversation than Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota is getting out of his long talk with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

By the simple device of dropping his conversational cats out of the bag one at a time, the Senator has kept himself and his talk on the front pages of the nation's press almost without interruption since he left Moscow on December 1.

Khrushchev is supposed to have given Humphrey "secret" messages to carry back to President Eisenhower. Mainly, it is hinted, about Russian progress in nuclear arms.

It seems a little odd that Khrushchev should have chosen a Senator of the opposition party to carry secret messages to the President of the United States. This would be even stranger by Soviet standards than by ours.

Possession of a five-megaton bomb by Russia would not be especially significant. The United States has been testing bombs with twice that power for years and recent emphasis has been on development of compact nuclear weapons. As for missiles, what really counts is whether Russia has an accurate intercontinental ballistic missile and not whether it has one capable of traveling 8,500 miles. As U. S. moon shots have shown, missiles can be fired with existing rockets almost any distance men set their minds to.

The real trick is to make them land with some reliability where you want them to go. The United States seems to be well on the way toward solving this problem with its Atlas ICBM. It would be worth something to know how far Russia has progressed along these lines, but if Senator Humphrey learned this from Khrushchev, he has not let the information drop.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Democratic Party

Historically, the Democratic Party consisted of three general elements:

1. The Solid South;
2. The newer immigrants (at different times, Irish, German, Italian, Jewish);
3. The poorer farmers, particularly those who favored Populism in its demand for cheap money.

Franklin D. Roosevelt brought into the Democratic Party the most radical elements in the country, including labor union leaders and the socialistic intellectuals.

The Democratic victory of 1958 cannot be defined as a product of any one of these elements but that it occurred is sufficient for politicians and Democratic National Committee Chairman, Paul Butler, is taking advantage of the situation to attempt to assert a leadership of his party which has not heretofore been the role of a National Committee Chairman. The test of strength among Paul Butler and Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson will come when Congress opens. Butler's effectiveness can only be proved in Congress and if the Chairman of the Democratic National Committee has to attack the Democratic leadership in Congress, it is not altogether impossible that a third party may result.

The Northern Democrats have, of course, seized upon the name of Governor Orval Faubus of Arkansas, as the devil whom they must fight, just as in an earlier period the Modern Republicans used the name of Senator Joe McCarthy as a rallying cry for the reorganization of the Republican Party. The mistake made by the Modern Republicans was that not only did they eliminate McCarthy but they split the Republican Party so that it cannot easily be put together again.

As any observer knows, Faubus does not lead the white population of the South. Such Democratic leaders as Sam Rayburn, Lyndon Johnson, Harry Byrd, Richard Russell and other committee chairmen in both the Senate and House are not dominated by Faubus. On the other hand, the assumption of the radical Northern Democrats that they can afford to read the South out of the Democratic Party is without statistical foundation.

When 1960 comes along, the question will be whether the Democratic Party can produce a candidate for President who will defeat the Republican candidate. Personalities will play a great role in this picture. For instance, if the radical Democrats were to nominate Adlai Stevenson, let us say, against Nixon or Rockefeller, the likelihood is that Stevenson, the cynical world-traveller, would be defeated by the dynamism of such men. On the other hand, suppose the inflation has become so wickedly spiral as to drive the economy into the madness which inflations produce, what effect will that have upon the election? The country will seek a sober, studious man to rescue it from its own greed and stupidity.

What gives Butler such blatant courage is the fact that the Republican Party seems to be dead. It has had a hard time since 1932, largely because the businessmen imposed their candidates upon the party. Such candidates as Landon and Willkie could never have been elected. Tom Dewey might have been. Robert A. Taft might have been. At any rate, when Eisenhower became President, he turned to political mavericks with the result that in his first term, he weakened his party; in his second term, he had not the time to correct his error.

However, even if the Republican Party were to disappear, the millions of men and women who do not hold moderate socialistic views are bound sooner or later to coalesce into a political force. If there were only 100 such persons in this country an organization would appear. Actually all over the country committees and organizations are coming into existence to revitalize the Rapublican Party. Thus far, not one has been sufficiently effective to capture the imagination of the older Republicans, many of whom even stay away from the polls, abstaining from exercising their constitutional rights.

Butler's error in ignoring the Southern bulwark of his party is that he bases too much on the 1958 election which was for Senators, Representatives and Governors but not for a President. Local issues prevailed. For instance, no one can reach any conclusions about the Republican or Democratic Party in New York State. The same is true of the defeat of William Knowland in California. Butler seems to be in a hurry to jump to conclusions. Meanwhile, he may be smashing his own party.

Army Turned Down Rockets For Horse-Drawn Artillery In 1820

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — My wife doesn't like it a bit when I write about her, but I hope she won't object too much if today I write about her father. For today the U.S. Army Field Artillery is dedicating a plaque in memory of her father, Col. Dan. T. Moore, who founded the Field Artillery's School of Fire at Fort Sill, Okla.

The founding of the school came about in an interesting manner. As in the case of our latest artillery development, the modern missile, we got our know-how from the Germans.

The Kaiser's army in the early part of this century had developed indirect artillery fire — a means of hitting a target from behind a hill without actually seeing it. No non-German had ever been admitted to the German artillery school. It was highly secret. But Teddy Roosevelt, then President, was on friendly terms with the Kaiser and told him: "I have a young cousin in the American army who wants to come over and study in your artillery school. Will you let him come?"

The Kaiser reluctantly agreed.

Young Lieutenant Moore gave the appearance of a good-natured, unenergetic army officer, though actually a genius in ballistics and mathematics. He had been educated in Germany and Switzerland, spoke German as well as he did English.

After attending the German artillery school from 1908 to 1910, he brought back to the United States the complete German artillery system, founded in the School of Fire at Fort Sill, and got the system installed in the American army and ready for use before America entered World War I.

Early Artilleryman

My wife was born in Germany, which caused her considerable embarrassment during two world wars. She grew up in army camps, which causes her continued embarrassment when I write anything critical of the army. It is her claim that army and navy officers should be able to take a few rides in government planes and take their wives along, too.

She comes by this view quite honestly, for her great-grandfather was also in the military missile business and also played a part in the early days of field artillery. And the irony is that the embryo of the present missile which Khrushchev boasts can shoot 8,700 miles, was actually brought to this country by my wife's forebear around 1820.

Gen. Daniel Tyler, grandfather of Col. Dan Tyler Moore whose grave is being commemorated at San Antonio today, fought as a young lieutenant in the battle of Bladensburg when the British captured Washington in 1312. At that time the "rocket's red glare" was no singing matter. Actual rockets were used over Baltimore harbor by the British, thereby inspiring the Star-Spangled Banner.

Afterward Daniel Tyler went to Europe and brought models for the deadly Congreve rocket, developed by the French, back to the United States. He also brought back a trunkload of charts for the radical new French artillery system developed at Metz, which consisted of attaching the caissons and the ammunition to the same vehicle that pulled a cannon. Previously the French had refused to turn this over to the American Ambassador. But when Tyler brought it back, the U.S. Army was so enthusiastic that it ignored the Congreve rocket and concentrated on the then revolutionary stock-trail system of artillery.

It was this system which his grandson, Col. Dan Tyler Moore, further modernized when he founded the Fort Sill School of Fire.

History might have been a lot different had the army concentrated on the original Congreve rocket back in 1820 instead of the horse-drawn cannon. But fortunately or unfortunately we didn't have the technical know-how to develop rockets and probably couldn't have done so for many years.

In the end, of course, we waited until after World War II to develop rockets and then imported the experts from Germany.

Don't Offend The Brass

During World War I, my father-in-law was impatiently warming a chair in the War Department, wanting to go overseas. One night he came home to find his good-looking young sister-in-law in the arms of the Chief of Staff of the Army, Gen. Peyton C. March.

Moore, then a brigadier general, exchanged hot words with the Chief of Staff, showed him to the door. Shortly thereafter he was transferred to combat duty in France in command of the 349th Field Artillery Regiment, a Negro unit.

My father-in-law was born in Montgomery, Ala. He appreciated the active duty. He did not appreciate serving with a Negro outfit. The race problem in the army was a lot different then from that of today. Shortly after the armistice he accepted the permanent rank of colonel and resigned.

When I was trying to persuade Colonel Moore's daughter to marry me, I got to know him well. This didn't help much with his daughter, for she had a mind of her own. But I did have the pleasure of knowing a rough and ready, old-fashioned army officer, who quite honestly thought that a pacifist was akin to a Communist, and that William Howard Taft, when Secretary of War under Teddy Roosevelt, was a traitor to his country because he believed in cutting the military budget.

Colonel Moore was a little lonesome when he got out of the army. Like many an army officer, he didn't know what to do with himself. The army was his life. He loved it and he didn't know how to do anything else. I write about him now not merely because a plaque is being laid upon his grave, but because he was symbolic of the men and officers who make up the backbone of our fighting force, courageous, restless, sometimes hot-headed, underpaid, but dedicated to their country.

Alabama Officials Right In Resisting Subpoena

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Alabama State officials are well within their rights in declining to recognize a blanket subpoena to produce records sought by the U. S. Civil Rights Commission.

President Eisenhower made an unfortunate mistake when he was misled into prejudging the case at his news conference. He said that failure to produce the records was "reprehensible." He added that it was a "refusal to comply with the basic laws of the land."

The question of what is or is not the "law of the land" in answering a subpoena is by no means clear. Actually, the President's own Attorney General in recent weeks has declined to furnish certain records which a Senate committee has been trying to get in its crusade for "freedom of information" in the Executive Branch of the government. Was this refusal a violation of the "law of the land?"

The late Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin was denied access to records in the Defense Department when he tried to compel testimony on "who promoted Peress."

Again and again the question of the scope of a subpoena has been before the courts. The Supreme Court of the United States has at one time described the subpoena power of Congress as not valid when a committee engages in a "fishing expedition." The courts generally have insisted that, when a subpoena is issued, it must specify certain records, and not be merely a blanket demand for records irrespective of their relevancy to the case.

Voting is a state matter, especially eligibility. In Georgia, they vote at 18 years of age—in other states at 21.

The Alabama state officials contend that there are no laws on the Alabama statute books which deny anyone the right to vote on account of race or color. The question turns entirely on the judgment and efficiency of the local registrars, and it is argued that their records are part of the state judicial process.

Also, is the Civil Rights Commission an arm of Congress or of the Executive Branch of the government? This has to be settled in a court proceeding.

Most of the recent rulings of the Supreme Court of the United States about the wrongful uses of subpoena power protect Communists and persons with Communist associations who have refused to answer questions of a Congressional committee. Thus, in the so-called "Watkins case," the Supreme Court of the United States, in an opinion rendered by Chief Justice Warren, said:

"There is no general authority to expose the private affairs of individuals without justification in terms of the functions of the Congress. This was freely conceded by the Solicitor General in his argument of this case. Nor is the Congress a law enforcement or trial agency. These are functions of the Executive and Judicial departments of government. No inquiry is an end in itself; it must be related to and in furtherance of a legitimate task of the Congress."

The Supreme Court stated, moreover, in the Watkins Case that Congress cannot constitute itself an inquisatorial body demanding through the subpoena power that a witness answer questions which invade his privacy. Certain state have the same rights of official privacy as individuals have recently claimed in the Communist cases.

It may well be that there are many Negroes in Alabama who ought to be permitted to vote. But there are lots of people in America who are the victims of injustice, and the only way they can get justice is through the proper procedures in the courts. The Department of Justice can, of course, go into court and demand that certain records be produced before the Commission. Some of the state officials might even be held in contempt for refusing to produce the records. But, in the final analysis, the Supreme Court of the United States will have to decide whether the subpoena power has been justly exercised and whether it invades the rights of the states. It's too early to condemn American citizens as law violators when they have not as yet been adjudged guilty in a trial.

The basic principle of the "separation of powers" has been in effect ever since the foundation of the Republic. President Washington, when asked to supply certain records to Congress, said:

"It is essential to the due administration of the government that the boundaries fixed by the Constitution between the several departments should be preserved. A just regard to the Constitution and to the duty of my office under the circumstances of this case forbids the compliance with your request."

Ever since that day no subpoena has ever been served on a President of the United States by Congress. Likewise, even former President Truman, after he was out of office, declined to honor a subpoena in connection with a hearing before the House Committee on Un-American Activities. He claimed that it was his privilege because he had once been President. The issue never went to the courts.

The Judicial Branch of the federal government has refused to permit the Legislative Branch to encroach upon its records. No legislative committee has been able to subpoena members of the Judiciary with respect to proceedings in their courts.

Certainly Administration officials do not concede that they have been violating the "law of the land" by refusing to testify before Congressional commissions or committees. So it is difficult to see why the judiciary of a state is said to be "defying" the "law of the land" when it insists that its judicial processes must be protected from any encroachment by Congress.

I've had enough. I'm going to hang a sign on the front door. It will read: "Fund Raisers — Go Home." I'm tired of the buck bleeders. They have nicked me for every type of human malady, mental, physical and imaginary. I used to think my few dollars did a little bit of good. I don't any more.

Where does the money go? Does anybody know? The doctors who do the research into cancer and cerebral palsy and multiple sclerosis have to be content to take whatever the big charity committees send. How much money does it cost to raise money?

A few weeks ago, Milton Berle asked me, on my television set, not to forget little old Jerry Lewis and his fund. I haven't forgotten Mr. Lewis. He used to be more funny than fund. Now he's a buck bleeder. It is almost impossible to be a star, in these days, without having a personal charity with which to slug the audience.

In the current Harper's Magazine, Marion K. Sanders speaks my mind when she dissects the big sickness campaigns. The solicitors hit you with pity and a tin cup. You can't turn them away because, when you think of the illness, you murmur: "There, but for the grace of God, go I." You give, hoping that, in your charity, you have bought a little immunity for yourself and your loved ones.

Miss Sanders says that, in Chatham County, Georgia, the Savannah Morning Herald conducted a survey of the fund raisers and found that 19 organizations were collecting for the blind, 7 for disabled veterans, 6 for the crippled, 4 for mental illness, 5 for cancer, 2 for polio, 2 each for muscular dystrophy, leprosy, alcoholism, tuberculosis, deafness, multiple sclerosis, nephrosis, arthritis, epilepsy and others.

There are about 50 nationwide appeals each year. Each group finds its own week, so that it will not step on the toes of the others. It is not by accident that the Multiple Sclerosis drive runs from Mother's Day to Father's Day.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt and Walter Winchell started the trend with The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and the Runyon Cancer Fund. They raised millions. It is possible that some of the March of Dimes money found its way to Dr. Jonas Salk. I don't know. But Salk found an answer to poliomyelitis. Has anyone got an answer to cancer? Can the American Cancer Society buy one for the $30,000,000 it collected last year?

Industry, in the main, now bars all fund collecting. The reason is that it costs too much in lost labor around the shop. The federal government permits only a Red Cross Drive and one or two others among its employes. Tuberculosis drives, according to Harper's, raise more money than ever, even though the mortality rate has been cut from 200 deaths per 100,000 population to 8.

There is another aspect. Some of the big fund raisers are loaded with high-priced administrators. For every dollar you donate, between 8 per cent and 30 per cent goes to "administration." The Disabled American Veterans spends 81 cents of each dollar handing out miniature car keys.

Your money goes a lot further if you contribute to your local Community Chest Drive or the United Fund. However, to make their work practical, you should discourage the others from making separate drives for funds. Give once. Give all you can. Many of us have our own personal charities. Mine, for example, is St. Joseph's Home for Boys at Rockleigh, N. J. To that one, I give separately because I have seen those little scrubbed faces and the shiny eyes which can, without trying, spin the dial to my heart.

A long time ago, Dr. George Vincent, President of the Rockefeller Foundation, said: "The health of the community is not a group of special interests . . . Getting The Disabled Homemaker Back On Her Feet

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Rehabilitating a disabled homemaker is a major accomplishment. The results are gratifying and the joy the handicapped woman exhibits when told she again can cook or wash dishes is worth more than all the money in the world.

Many homes are disrupted when mother develops a stroke, arthritis, multiple sclerosis, or polio, or when she loses a limb through disease or accident. The responsibility of the household falls on the husband, who must prepare the meals and care for his wife and children. Many of these men must make adjustments at work to get home at noon or leave an hour earlier than usual.

It is a great day when a handicapped mother acquires enough skill to free others for the business world. Rehabilitation experts have been able to retrain many disabled women so they can maintain their home and feed and care for one or more members of the family.

They may not be able to carry the load they did before; all the chores will take longer and the woman should not undertake a task that requires more energy than she can afford. But the majority are able to do enough to give them status and satisfaction.

In retraining the homemaker, the essential duties are stressed such as getting lunch followed by housecleaning, laundry, and caring for the children. In peeling potatoes, if the woman has the use of only one hand, a special support may be needed to hold them in place. She must learn to break eggs, wash dishes, and make the beds with one hand.

Different household equipment and devices may be needed to fit the individual needs of the handicapped person. The work area must be planned carefully as to height and storage space for foods, dishes, pans, and linens.

In some instances the work tables must be built around an opening into which the wheelchair fits. Fabrics that shed dirt and require no ironing will lighten the homemaking chores. The same applies to special floor coverings and furnishings.

Work plans may be obtained from local rehabilitation and health agencies as the heart association or the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation. Many extension services of state colleges, home economists, dietitians, and food and equipment companies have a similar service.

LOW CALCIUM FOODS

Mrs. D. writes: Are there any foods that do not contain calcium? I'm supposed to follow a low calcium diet and know I can't have milk, eggs, and certain vegetables. But I would like to know what foods I can have.

REPLY

Foods lowest in calcium include asparagus, bananas, beets, berries, brussels sprouts, citrus fruits, green corn, corn syrup, crabs, egg white, eggplant fish, honey jelly, lettuce, lobster meats, melons, mushrooms, onions, orchard fruits, pineapple, potato, scallops, squash, tapioca and tomatoes.

THYMUS RADIATION

Mrs. G. K. writes: My 5 year old son had X-ray treatment for enlarged thymus when he was a baby. What percentage of children who have had this form of treatment develop leukemia?

REPLY

This is a moot question although some of these youngsters have had X-ray treatment of the thymus gland. On the other hand, many victims of leukemia never had X-ray therapy so that it is unfair to blame radiation for this disease.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

There was a brief pause, and then the girl admitted sheepishly, "This is Democratic headquarters."

Humphrey's 'Secrets' From Khrushchev

It is doubtful whether anyone ever squeezed more political mileage out of a single conversation than Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota is getting out of his long talk with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

By the simple device of dropping his conversational cats out of the bag one at a time, the Senator has kept himself and his talk on the front pages of the nation's press almost without interruption since he left Moscow on December 1.

Khrushchev is supposed to have given Humphrey "secret" messages to carry back to President Eisenhower. Mainly, it is hinted, about Russian progress in nuclear arms.

It seems a little odd that Khrushchev should have chosen a Senator of the opposition party to carry secret messages to the President of the United States. This would be even stranger by Soviet standards than by ours.

Possession of a five-megaton bomb by Russia would not be especially significant. The United States has been testing bombs with twice that power for years and recent emphasis has been on development of compact nuclear weapons. As for missiles, what really counts is whether Russia has an accurate intercontinental ballistic missile and not whether it has one capable of traveling 8,500 miles. As U. S. moon shots have shown, missiles can be fired with existing rockets almost any distance men set their minds to.

The real trick is to make them land with some reliability where you want them to go. The United States seems to be well on the way toward solving this problem with its Atlas ICBM. It would be worth something to know how far Russia has progressed along these lines, but if Senator Humphrey learned this from Khrushchev, he has not let the information drop.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Democratic Party

Historically, the Democratic Party consisted of three general elements:

1. The Solid South;
2. The newer immigrants (at different times, Irish, German, Italian, Jewish);
3. The poorer farmers, particularly those who favored Populism in its demand for cheap money.

Franklin D. Roosevelt brought into the Democratic Party the most radical elements in the country, including labor union leaders and the socialistic intellectuals.

The Democratic victory of 1958 cannot be defined as a product of any one of these elements but that it occurred is sufficient for politicians and Democratic National Committee Chairman, Paul Butler, is taking advantage of the situation to attempt to assert a leadership of his party which has not heretofore been the role of a National Committee Chairman. The test of strength among Paul Butler and Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson will come when Congress opens. Butler's effectiveness can only be proved in Congress and if the Chairman of the Democratic National Committee has to attack the Democratic leadership in Congress, it is not altogether impossible that a third party may result.

The Northern Democrats have, of course, seized upon the name of Governor Orval Faubus of Arkansas, as the devil whom they must fight, just as in an earlier period the Modern Republicans used the name of Senator Joe McCarthy as a rallying cry for the reorganization of the Republican Party. The mistake made by the Modern Republicans was that not only did they eliminate McCarthy but they split the Republican Party so that it cannot easily be put together again.

As any observer knows, Faubus does not lead the white population of the South. Such Democratic leaders as Sam Rayburn, Lyndon Johnson, Harry Byrd, Richard Russell and other committee chairmen in both the Senate and House are not dominated by Faubus. On the other hand, the assumption of the radical Northern Democrats that they can afford to read the South out of the Democratic Party is without statistical foundation.

When 1960 comes along, the question will be whether the Democratic Party can produce a candidate for President who will defeat the Republican candidate. Personalities will play a great role in this picture. For instance, if the radical Democrats were to nominate Adlai Stevenson, let us say, against Nixon or Rockefeller, the likelihood is that Stevenson, the cynical world-traveller, would be defeated by the dynamism of such men. On the other hand, suppose the inflation has become so wickedly spiral as to drive the economy into the madness which inflations produce, what effect will that have upon the election? The country will seek a sober, studious man to rescue it from its own greed and stupidity.

What gives Butler such blatant courage is the fact that the Republican Party seems to be dead. It has had a hard time since 1932, largely because the businessmen imposed their candidates upon the party. Such candidates as Landon and Willkie could never have been elected. Tom Dewey might have been. Robert A. Taft might have been. At any rate, when Eisenhower became President, he turned to political mavericks with the result that in his first term, he weakened his party; in his second term, he had not the time to correct his error.

However, even if the Republican Party were to disappear, the millions of men and women who do not hold moderate socialistic views are bound sooner or later to coalesce into a political force. If there were only 100 such persons in this country an organization would appear. Actually all over the country committees and organizations are coming into existence to revitalize the Rapublican Party. Thus far, not one has been sufficiently effective to capture the imagination of the older Republicans, many of whom even stay away from the polls, abstaining from exercising their constitutional rights.

Butler's error in ignoring the Southern bulwark of his party is that he bases too much on the 1958 election which was for Senators, Representatives and Governors but not for a President. Local issues prevailed. For instance, no one can reach any conclusions about the Republican or Democratic Party in New York State. The same is true of the defeat of William Knowland in California. Butler seems to be in a hurry to jump to conclusions. Meanwhile, he may be smashing his own party.

Army Turned Down Rockets For Horse-Drawn Artillery In 1820

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — My wife doesn't like it a bit when I write about her, but I hope she won't object too much if today I write about her father. For today the U.S. Army Field Artillery is dedicating a plaque in memory of her father, Col. Dan. T. Moore, who founded the Field Artillery's School of Fire at Fort Sill, Okla.

The founding of the school came about in an interesting manner. As in the case of our latest artillery development, the modern missile, we got our know-how from the Germans.

The Kaiser's army in the early part of this century had developed indirect artillery fire — a means of hitting a target from behind a hill without actually seeing it. No non-German had ever been admitted to the German artillery school. It was highly secret. But Teddy Roosevelt, then President, was on friendly terms with the Kaiser and told him: "I have a young cousin in the American army who wants to come over and study in your artillery school. Will you let him come?"

The Kaiser reluctantly agreed.

Young Lieutenant Moore gave the appearance of a good-natured, unenergetic army officer, though actually a genius in ballistics and mathematics. He had been educated in Germany and Switzerland, spoke German as well as he did English.

After attending the German artillery school from 1908 to 1910, he brought back to the United States the complete German artillery system, founded in the School of Fire at Fort Sill, and got the system installed in the American army and ready for use before America entered World War I.

Early Artilleryman

My wife was born in Germany, which caused her considerable embarrassment during two world wars. She grew up in army camps, which causes her continued embarrassment when I write anything critical of the army. It is her claim that army and navy officers should be able to take a few rides in government planes and take their wives along, too.

She comes by this view quite honestly, for her great-grandfather was also in the military missile business and also played a part in the early days of field artillery. And the irony is that the embryo of the present missile which Khrushchev boasts can shoot 8,700 miles, was actually brought to this country by my wife's forebear around 1820.

Gen. Daniel Tyler, grandfather of Col. Dan Tyler Moore whose grave is being commemorated at San Antonio today, fought as a young lieutenant in the battle of Bladensburg when the British captured Washington in 1312. At that time the "rocket's red glare" was no singing matter. Actual rockets were used over Baltimore harbor by the British, thereby inspiring the Star-Spangled Banner.

Afterward Daniel Tyler went to Europe and brought models for the deadly Congreve rocket, developed by the French, back to the United States. He also brought back a trunkload of charts for the radical new French artillery system developed at Metz, which consisted of attaching the caissons and the ammunition to the same vehicle that pulled a cannon. Previously the French had refused to turn this over to the American Ambassador. But when Tyler brought it back, the U.S. Army was so enthusiastic that it ignored the Congreve rocket and concentrated on the then revolutionary stock-trail system of artillery.

It was this system which his grandson, Col. Dan Tyler Moore, further modernized when he founded the Fort Sill School of Fire.

History might have been a lot different had the army concentrated on the original Congreve rocket back in 1820 instead of the horse-drawn cannon. But fortunately or unfortunately we didn't have the technical know-how to develop rockets and probably couldn't have done so for many years.

In the end, of course, we waited until after World War II to develop rockets and then imported the experts from Germany.

Don't Offend The Brass

During World War I, my father-in-law was impatiently warming a chair in the War Department, wanting to go overseas. One night he came home to find his good-looking young sister-in-law in the arms of the Chief of Staff of the Army, Gen. Peyton C. March.

Moore, then a brigadier general, exchanged hot words with the Chief of Staff, showed him to the door. Shortly thereafter he was transferred to combat duty in France in command of the 349th Field Artillery Regiment, a Negro unit.

My father-in-law was born in Montgomery, Ala. He appreciated the active duty. He did not appreciate serving with a Negro outfit. The race problem in the army was a lot different then from that of today. Shortly after the armistice he accepted the permanent rank of colonel and resigned.

When I was trying to persuade Colonel Moore's daughter to marry me, I got to know him well. This didn't help much with his daughter, for she had a mind of her own. But I did have the pleasure of knowing a rough and ready, old-fashioned army officer, who quite honestly thought that a pacifist was akin to a Communist, and that William Howard Taft, when Secretary of War under Teddy Roosevelt, was a traitor to his country because he believed in cutting the military budget.

Colonel Moore was a little lonesome when he got out of the army. Like many an army officer, he didn't know what to do with himself. The army was his life. He loved it and he didn't know how to do anything else. I write about him now not merely because a plaque is being laid upon his grave, but because he was symbolic of the men and officers who make up the backbone of our fighting force, courageous, restless, sometimes hot-headed, underpaid, but dedicated to their country.

Alabama Officials Right In Resisting Subpoena

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Alabama State officials are well within their rights in declining to recognize a blanket subpoena to produce records sought by the U. S. Civil Rights Commission.

President Eisenhower made an unfortunate mistake when he was misled into prejudging the case at his news conference. He said that failure to produce the records was "reprehensible." He added that it was a "refusal to comply with the basic laws of the land."

The question of what is or is not the "law of the land" in answering a subpoena is by no means clear. Actually, the President's own Attorney General in recent weeks has declined to furnish certain records which a Senate committee has been trying to get in its crusade for "freedom of information" in the Executive Branch of the government. Was this refusal a violation of the "law of the land?"

The late Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin was denied access to records in the Defense Department when he tried to compel testimony on "who promoted Peress."

Again and again the question of the scope of a subpoena has been before the courts. The Supreme Court of the United States has at one time described the subpoena power of Congress as not valid when a committee engages in a "fishing expedition." The courts generally have insisted that, when a subpoena is issued, it must specify certain records, and not be merely a blanket demand for records irrespective of their relevancy to the case.

Voting is a state matter, especially eligibility. In Georgia, they vote at 18 years of age—in other states at 21.

The Alabama state officials contend that there are no laws on the Alabama statute books which deny anyone the right to vote on account of race or color. The question turns entirely on the judgment and efficiency of the local registrars, and it is argued that their records are part of the state judicial process.

Also, is the Civil Rights Commission an arm of Congress or of the Executive Branch of the government? This has to be settled in a court proceeding.

Most of the recent rulings of the Supreme Court of the United States about the wrongful uses of subpoena power protect Communists and persons with Communist associations who have refused to answer questions of a Congressional committee. Thus, in the so-called "Watkins case," the Supreme Court of the United States, in an opinion rendered by Chief Justice Warren, said:

"There is no general authority to expose the private affairs of individuals without justification in terms of the functions of the Congress. This was freely conceded by the Solicitor General in his argument of this case. Nor is the Congress a law enforcement or trial agency. These are functions of the Executive and Judicial departments of government. No inquiry is an end in itself; it must be related to and in furtherance of a legitimate task of the Congress."

The Supreme Court stated, moreover, in the Watkins Case that Congress cannot constitute itself an inquisatorial body demanding through the subpoena power that a witness answer questions which invade his privacy. Certain state have the same rights of official privacy as individuals have recently claimed in the Communist cases.

It may well be that there are many Negroes in Alabama who ought to be permitted to vote. But there are lots of people in America who are the victims of injustice, and the only way they can get justice is through the proper procedures in the courts. The Department of Justice can, of course, go into court and demand that certain records be produced before the Commission. Some of the state officials might even be held in contempt for refusing to produce the records.

But, in the final analysis, the Supreme Court of the United States will have to decide whether the subpoena power has been justly exercised and whether it invades the rights of the states. It's too early to condemn American citizens as law violators when they have not as yet been adjudged guilty in a trial.

The basic principle of the "separation of powers" has been in effect ever since the foundation of the Republic. President Washington, when asked to supply certain records to Congress, said:

"It is essential to the due administration of the government that the boundaries fixed by the Constitution between the several departments should be preserved. A just regard to the Constitution and to the duty of my office under the circumstances of this case forbids the compliance with your request."

Ever since that day no subpoena has ever been served on a President of the United States by Congress. Likewise, even former President Truman, after he was out of office, declined to honor a subpoena in connection with a hearing before the House Committee on Un-American Activities. He claimed that it was his privilege because he had once been President. The issue never went to the courts.

The Judicial Branch of the federal government has refused to permit the Legislative Branch to encroach upon its records. No legislative committee has been able to subpoena members of the Judiciary with respect to proceedings in their courts.

Certainly Administration officials do not concede that they have been violating the "law of the land" by refusing to testify before Congressional commissions or committees. So it is difficult to see why the judiciary of a state is said to be "defying" the "law of the land" when it insists that its judicial processes must be protected from any encroachment by Congress.

The responsibility of the household falls on the husband, who must prepare the meals and care for his wife and children. Many of these men must make adjustments at work to get home at noon or leave an hour earlier than usual.

It is a great day when a handicapped mother acquires enough skill to free others for the business world. Rehabilitation experts have been able to retrain many disabled women so they can maintain their home and feed and care for one or more members of the family.

They may not be able to carry the load they did before; all the chores will take longer and the woman should not undertake a task that requires more energy than she can afford. But the majority are able to do enough to give them status and satisfaction.

In retraining the homemaker, the essential duties are stressed such as getting lunch followed by housecleaning, laundry, and caring for the children. In peeling potatoes, if the woman has the use of only one hand, a special support may be needed to hold them in place. She must learn to break eggs, wash dishes, and make the beds with one hand.

Different household equipment and devices may be needed to fit the individual needs of the handicapped person. The work area must be planned carefully as to height and storage space for foods, dishes, pans, and linens.

In some instances the work tables must be built around an opening into which the wheelchair fits. Fabrics that shed dirt and require no ironing will lighten the homemaking chores. The same applies to special floor coverings and furnishings.

Work plans may be obtained from local rehabilitation and health agencies as the heart association or the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation. Many extension services of state colleges, home economists, dietitians, and food and equipment companies have a similar service.

LOW CALCIUM FOODS

Mrs. D. writes: Are there any foods that do not contain calcium? I'm supposed to follow a low calcium diet and know I can't have milk, eggs, and certain vegetables. But I would like to know what foods I can have.

REPLY

Foods lowest in calcium include asparagus, bananas, beets, berries, brussels sprouts, citrus fruits, green corn, corn syrup, crabs, egg white, eggplant fish, honey jelly, lettuce, lobster meats, melons, mushrooms, onions, orchard fruits, pineapple, potato, scallops, squash, tapioca and tomatoes.

THYMUS RADIATION

Mrs. G. K. writes: My 5 year old son had X-ray treatment for enlarged thymus when he was a baby. What percentage of children who have had this form of treatment develop leukemia?

REPLY

This is a moot question although some of these youngsters have had X-ray treatment of the thymus gland. On the other hand, many victims of leukemia never had X-ray therapy so that it is unfair to blame radiation for this disease.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

The day before elections in Vermont, a girl called a Burlington newspaper office and anxiously inquired, "Can you recall the name of the Democratic candidate for governor in tomorrow's election?" The clerk admitted, "I don't believe our paper knows there is a Democratic candidate. Why don't you call Democratic headquarters?" There was a brief pause, and then the girl admitted sheepishly, "This is Democratic headquarters."

The day before Thanksgiving, one turkey strutted up to another and said, "When our blasted owner's looking the other way, let's make a break for freedom."

"Count me out," answered the first gobbler. "On a day like this, you don't catch me sticking my neck out."

The crooner whose last four records had sold over a million looked out at his swimming pool one morning, and rang for his butler. "Jeeves," he yawned, "the pool needs restocking. Order a couple of dozen blondes."

The Lightner Brothers of Hagerstown will officiate.

It will mark the 46th game of the series between the city rivals. Fort Hill holds a 25-20 edge in victories in a series in which the winning margin was from one to three points in 11 contests. Five of the games were decided by a single point. Fort Hill enjoyed the longest winning streak — 12 games from 1948 through 1953. The schools, however, have split even in their last ten contests.

Last season LaSalle clobbered the Sentinels, 80-52, at Fort Hill, but the Explorers lost the series finale on their home court by the score of 55-54.

Hubs Defeat Fort Hill

Fort Hill went down to defeat for the first time this season on Saturday night when Mel Henry's North Hagerstown Hubs scored their second C.V.A. League win of the season by the score of 59-40. North High had previously defeated Allegany here to the tune of 60-56.

Coach Wayne Boor's quint is now 1-1 while LaSalle has won one game in three outings, beating Fort Ashby and losing to Valley and South Hills of Pittsburgh.

Other games on tap for tonight include a P.V.C. tilt between Moorefield and Circleville at the latter place, Green Bank at Franklin, Alumni at Oldtown and Waynesboro (Pa.) at North Hagerstown.

Jackets At Frostburg

Frostburg State Teachers College plays host to the Waynesburg (Pa.) College Yellow Jackets tonight at 8 o'clock in the Mountain City. The Bobcats will be striving to break into the win column after having dropped decisions to Potomac State, Shippensburg and Bowie State Teachers.

Kentucky And Robertson Share Cage Spotlight

Wildcats Win Fifth, Oscar Averages 43, West Virginia Upset

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

It has been only a two week run of the new season to once again establish Kentucky and Oscar Robertson—like death and taxes—as the two certainties of college basketball.

Kentucky baron Adolph Rupp has shaped what looks like another winner despite the presence of only Johnny Cox from last season's NCAA championship team. The second-ranked Wildcats beat ninth-ranked St. Louis 76-57 in the tip-off of the new Saturday afternoon national television series (NBC).

That was Kentucky's fifth triumph without a loss and third straight in a showdown week's test. Earlier, the Ruppmen had disposed of the likes of Duke and Southern Methodist.

Averages 43 Points

Robertson, the "Big O" of top-ranked Cincinnati, led all scorers with a 35.1 average as a sophomore last year. In three games so far, Oscar has been traveling at a 43-points a game pace, including his 42-point show in Cincy's 106-86 whipping of Marshall of the Mid-American Conference Saturday night.

Like others before them, the Marshall defenses were set up especially for Oscar. The Big O met it head-on, hitting 15 of 25 field goal attempts and flipping in 12 of 16 free throw tries.

Except for Kentucky and Robertson, the new season already has that old look of upsets and uncertainties.

West Virginia Upset

The weekend nominees included Virginia's startling 75-72 upset of fourth-ranked West Virginia (5-1), and a 56-54 victory over Notre Dame for a Wisconsin club that had lost 11 in a row.

Paul Adkins' 25 points led Virginia, which had won only one of five starts and was considered the doormat of the Atlantic Coast Conference. Wisconsin was so unhappy with Bud Foster, in his 25th year as Badger coach, that he was hung in effigy Friday night. Bob Barneson's 19 points triggered the upset of the Irish, who are considered as good as any in the Midwest this time around.

Jayhawks Stopped

Besides St. Louis and West Virginia, Kansas was the only other member of the AP's top 10 to lose during the week. The Jayhawks, hurtin' without Wilt Chamberlain, sprawled in a big way—losing to Denver, UCLA and on Saturday night to Southern California, 68-55.

Third-ranked Kansas State had a couple of West Coast squeakers to make its record 4-0, nipping San Francisco 53-52 Saturday after easing past California 68-65. Mississippi State, now 5-0, piled up points at the freethrow line to nip Murray (Ky) 63-62.

North Carolina State, No. 5, Tennessee, No. 6, and 10th-pegged Northwestern were idle Saturday.

If there are replacements moving up into the charmed circle they'll likely come from among Xavier of Ohio, Pitt, Bradley, St. Joseph's (Pa), Tulane, Texas A&M, North Carolina, and Auburn.

Pitt Beats Dukes

Xavier's Musketeers, with much the same outfit that won the National Invitation Tournament last March, made it 4-0 Saturday with an 80-58 romp over Detroit. Pitt won the Steel Bowl Tournament with a 71-56 whipping of Duquesne. Bradley and St. Joseph's gave the Madison Square Garden fans a good show, Bradley with a 71-66 victory over a good St. John's (NY), and St. Joe in a 92-57 rout of Manhattan.

Tulane won its fourth straight, 61-51 over Texas and the Texas Aggies (4-0) showed good balance in toppling Centenary 63-57. Auburn, with an 11-game streak that is the longest of the big schools, and North Carolina did not play Saturday but both have perfect records so far.

Tigers Whip Navy

Niagara, Syracuse and Princeton are eastern possibilities. Niagara, 3-0, bounced Fordham 63-52, Syracuse edged Canisius 71-70, and Princeton whipped previously unbeaten Navy 86-64 with the same skill that brought it a 36-point victory over Temple earlier in the week.

In games regionally televised, Georgia stopped South Carolina 76-72 and Iowa rallied for a 75-73 victory over Texas Tech. It was the Hawkeyes' 81st straight triumph over a non-conference opponent on their home court.

San Diego Wins

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — The San Diego Marine Corps Recruit Depot defeated Camp Lejeune (North Carolina), 62-22, Sunday in the Leatherneck Bowl to capture the mythical all - Marine football championship.

The free - scoring game was played before an estimated 20,000 fans at Balboa Stadium.

Barons Name Pilot

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)— Lamar "Skeeter" Newsome, a veteran of 28 years in baseball including 12 in the majors, Sunday was signed to a one-year contract to manage the Birmingham Barons of the Southern Association.

Newsome takes over the reins relinquished by Cal Ermer.

AILING since mid - September, Willie Hoppe, the 71-year-old former billiards champ, is in a Miami hospital where he is undergoing treatment for a heart condition. Hoppe, the "Boy Wonder" of billiards, retired in 1955. (Central Press)

Rams Conquer Packers, 34-20

Aerial Wizardry Big Factor In Win

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A gallant Green Bay underdog team threw a scare into the Los Angeles Rams, but the aerial wizardry of the Rams crushed them in the final game of the season Sunday, 34-20.

Cinching a tie for second place with the Chicago Bears in the National Football League Western Conference, the Rams were faced with a tight ball game until the final four minutes of the battle.

Rookie quarterback Joe Francis from Oregon State for the first time played almost the entire game for the Packers, and kept the Rams in hot water with his optional runs and passes.

Most of the excitement was jammed into one minute and 55 seconds of the second quarter.

Quarterback Billy Wade started it for the Rams with a pass and run by Del Shofner that went for 43 yards and a touchdown. Francis a few seconds later lofted a 50-yard pass to veteran Max McGee, who leaped to catch it on the goal line and had to fight off two Ram defenders to hold on to the ball.

On the first play after the following kickoff, Wade and halfback Jon Arnett combined on another spectacular aerial maneuver that went for 75 yards.

This tied the score at 14-14, and before the quarter ended Paige Cothren broke it with a 10-yard field goal and the Rams were never behind again.

Racing Car Skids, Three Persons Die

BAHIA BLANCA, Argentina (AP)—Three persons were killed and 13 injured Sunday when a racing car skidded out of control and struck a crowd of fans watching the start of the last lap of the Argentine Grand Prix.

The driver of the car, Manuel Mantinian, and his mechanic, Patricio Bruno, were hospitalized with injuries.

The accident occurred as the cars started out for the final 1,000 kilometer (621) mile leg to Buenos Aires. Mantinian's car failed to make a turn near a city park jammed with spectators and plowed into the crowd.

Juan Galvez won the 5,491 kilometer race with a time of 39 hours, 50 minutes, 28 seconds.

Rathman Hangs Up Records In Peru

LIMA, Peru (UPI)—Jim Rathman of Miami, Fla., driving a Ford, won the "Circuito Atocongo" car race Sunday breaking the race and lap records.

Rathman was he only American in the 41 car field. All the other racers were South Americans. Chilean Sergio Neder was second and Peruvian Eduardo Dibos was third, both with Fords.

Rathman and co-pilot I. Pagan covered the 633-miles of the race in 6 hours, 8 minutes, 42 seconds and 2 tenths, for an average speed of 109.358 miles an hour to break the record of Peru's A. Alsurado, 6:33:38.0.

They broke the other record with a clocking of 12 minutes and 11 seconds on the 11th lap, breaking the record of Peru's J. Sarmiento, 13:22.

West Virginia And Richmond Clash Tuesday

Plays In Kentucky Invitational Friday

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —Coach Fred Schaus and his West Virginia Mountaineers return to the Southern Conference here Tuesday against Richmond before defending their Kentucky Invitational crown Friday and Saturday at Lexington, Ky.

The Mountaineers dropped their first game in six starts Saturday night in Charleston, bowing to a determined band of Virginia Cavaliers, 75-72, before a full house of 6,500 in the capital city's new Civic Center.

West Virginia leads the conference with a 3-0 record and will be seeking its 40th successive SC triumph and 26th in a row on the Mountaineer fieldhouse court.

Richmond owns a 1-2 conference mark and is 4-2 on the season after it spanked VMI 82-39 on Saturday at Richmond.

The Mountaineers will meet Oklahoma State in the first round of the Kentucky Invitational while the host Kentucky Wildcats face Ohio State. The losers play the first game on Saturday and the winners the second.

West Virginia, last winter's regular - season national champion, knocked off North Carolina in the KIT finals 75-64 to end a 37-game winning streak for the Tarheels.

Kentucky, last season's NCAA champ, is unbeaten this season and turned back St. Louis University 76-57 Saturday for its fifth in a row.

Redskins Top Eagles, 20-0

Losers Gain Only 7 Yards Rushing

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Redskins' little Eddie Le Baron connected with rookie Bill Anderson on a 71-yard last-period scoring pass play for the frosting on a 20-0 victory Sunday over the punchless Philadelphia Eagles.

The Redskins achieved their first shutout since 1955.

It was Gene Brito day at Griffith Stadium, and the Redskins' brilliant defensive end justified the occasion with another smashing performance on his retirement from the National Football League.

The Eagles could not move on the ground and veteran passer Norm Van Brocklin was so ineffective in the first half that Sonny Jurgensen took over at quarterback. Jurgensen contrived the only Philadelphia scoring threats on long passes, but each time the Redskins buckled down and forced Bobby Walston to attempt field goals which missed.

The Eagles netted only seven yards on the ground.

Sam Baker kicked the Redskins ahead in the first quarter with a 30-yard field goal and booted another from 18 yards in the second.

Ralph Guglielmi, subbing for Le Baron, then pitched Washington into touchdown position and Ed Sutton carried two yards for the score—aided by Don Bosseler's clear-the-way block.

Le Baron returned in the second half and practically assured himself of the NFL passing title with his long strike to Anderson.

From his own 29 Le Baron hurled to Anderson, who caught it on the run at Philadelphia's 45 and outraced linebacker Bill Hudson to the end zone.

Washington—TD, Sutton (2 run), Anderson (71 pass from Le Baron), FG, Baker 2 (30, 18), PAT, Baker 2.

Hunters Slay 173 Antlerless Deer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland hunters killed 173 antlerless deer during Saturday's 9½ hour season in four Eastern Shore counties, Chief Game Warden George B. Shields said Sunday.

This was far greater than the 47 killed during last year's abbreviated season.

Shields said Somerset County reported 15 kills, Wicomico 12, Dorchester 50 and Worcester 96.

About 3,600 hunters were issued permits this year to shoot the does and fawns, but some of these lost their eligibility for the short season because they bagged bucks during the regular shooting season.

Tittle's Passing Beats Baltimore Colts, 21-12

'Frisco Winds Up Coach Albert's Tenure With Win

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Veteran quarterback Y.A. Tittle engineered three touchdown drives Sunday as the San Francisco 49ers wound up their season and Frankie Albert's tenure as coach with a 21-12 victory over the Baltimore Colts.

Baltimore, Western Conference champion and which next plays for the National Football League title Dec. 28, didn't collect a touchdown until one minute and 40 seconds remained in the game.

Until then, when Johnny Unitas passed 38 yards to Jim Mutscheller, the only Baltimore tallies were field goals of 48 yards by Bert Rechichar and 28 by Steve Myhra.

After their touchdown, the Colts worked an on-side kickoff and penetrated to the 49er 24 as the game ended.

An unruly crowd streamed onto the field and police, with a patrol wagon on the gridiron, broke it up. Attendance was 58,334.

The Colts had clinched the Western Conference crown two weeks ago with a victory over the 49ers in Baltimore. The 49ers finished fourth, a position they would have held, win or lose, for a 6-6 season. Baltimore had a 9-3 record, including losses in the last two. They will have to wait until next week's Cleveland-New York game to know their title game opponent.

The Colts took a 3-0 lead on Rechichar's field goal but fell behind when Tittle's 8-yard touchdown pass to Clyde Conner culminated a 51-yard drive in the second period.

The 49ers never again were headed in their final game under Albert. Their former star quarterback and head coach for the past three seasons announced his resignation Friday.

San Francisco led 7-6 at the half and drove 83 and 80 yards for touchdowns in the third and fourth periods. Reserve fullback J. D. Smith scored both, from one-inch out and from the 3-yard line.

Gordy Soltau booted all three conversions.

Syracuse Wins Seventh Straight

DETROIT (UPI)—The red hot Syracuse Nationals romped to their seventh straight National Basketball Assn. victory Sunday defeating the Detroit Pistons 101-95 in the nationally televised game of the week.

The loss snapped a four-game win streak by Detroit and dropped them three games behind leading St. Louis in the Western Division race.

Mount St. Mary's Wins Sunday Game

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y. (AP) — Mount St. Mary's of Emmitsburg, Md., defeated Adelphi 68-62 and Hofstra whipped Loyola of Baltimore 71-52 in a college basketball doubleheader Sunday.

Bert Sheing paced the Mount St. Mary's attack with 22 points, four of them coming in the final 36 seconds of play to sew up the victory. The Mounties had beaten Hofstra Friday night in the opening twinbill of a week-end court invasion of Long Island by the two Maryland teams.

Cops $2,000 Prize With 4-Round 272

SANFORD, Fla. (AP) — Large George Bayer of Glen Eagles, Ill., powered, putted and scrambled his way to a 68 to win the $2,000 top prize Sunday in the $15,000 top prize Sunday in the $15,000 Sanford Open Golf Tournament by one stroke.

His four-round total was 272.

Bayer's three under par performance Sunday was his fourth straight sub par round, and in 272 was 12 under par for the 72 holes.

The 29 was matched by Tom Nieporte of Bronxville, N.Y. and tied the low nine hole score of the year.

Dow Finsterwald had a 67 for 274 for third place. Nieporte's 29 on the second nine helped him to a 65, the best round of the day, and also gave him a tie for fourth.

They were Julius Borros of Mid place with four others at 275.

They were Julius Borros of Mid Pines, N.C., Art Wall of Pocono Manor, Pa., Bo Wininger of Odessa, Tex., and Jay Hebert of Sanford.

Eglin Is Winner Of Service Title

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — Eglin Air Force Base won a victory with air power Sunday to take the mythical national service championship 15-7 from Brooke Army Medical Center in the annual Shrimp Bowl game.

The potent passing of Eagle quarterback Houston Patton accounted for all but one of the Airmen's points as Patton tossed for two touchdowns and one two-point conversion in a game before 7,000 spectators.

Patton was the unanimous choice of the sportswriters present as the game's outstanding player.

LaSalle, Fort Hill Clash In 46th Cage Contest Tonight

Initial City Game Is Set At Fort Hill

Frostburg Teachers To Host Waynesburg; Other Games Listed

Fort Hill and LaSalle, co-champions last season, will tangle in the first intra-city game of the 1958-59 campaign tonight at 8 o'clock on the Fort Hill court.

The Lightner Brothers of Hagerstown will officiate.

It will mark the 46th game of the series between the city rivals. Fort Hill holds a 25-20 edge in victories in a series in which the winning margin was from one to three points in 11 contests. Five of the games were decided by a single point. Fort Hill enjoyed the longest winning streak — 12 games from 1948 through 1953. The schools, however, have split even in their last ten contests.

Last season LaSalle clobbered the Sentinels, 80-52, at Fort Hill, but the Explorers lost the series finale on their home court by the score of 55-54.

Hubs Defeat Fort Hill

Fort Hill went down to defeat for the first time this season on Saturday night when Mel Henry's North Hagerstown Hubs scored their second C.V.A. League win of the season by the score of 59-40. North High had previously defeated Allegany here to the tune of 60-56.

Coach Wayne Boor's quint is now 1-1 while LaSalle has won one game in three outings, beating Fort Ashby and losing to Valley and South Hills of Pittsburgh.

Other games on tap for tonight include a P.V.C. tilt between Moorefield and Circleville at the latter place, Green Bank at Franklin, Alumni at Oldtown and Waynesboro (Pa.) at North Hagerstown.

Jackets At Frostburg

Frostburg State Teachers College plays host to the Waynesburg (Pa.) College Yellow Jackets tonight at 8 o'clock in the Mountain City. The Bobcats will be striving to break into the win column after having dropped decisions to Potomac State, Shippensburg and Bowie State Teachers.

Kentucky And Robertson Share Cage Spotlight

Wildcats Win Fifth, Oscar Averages 43, West Virginia Upset

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

It has been only a two week run of the new season to once again establish Kentucky and Oscar Robertson—like death and taxes—as the two certainties of college basketball.

Kentucky baron Adolph Rupp has shaped what looks like another winner despite the presence of only Johnny Cox from last season's NCAA championship team. The second-ranked Wildcats beat ninth-ranked St. Louis 76-57 in the tip-off of the new Saturday afternoon national television series (NBC).

That was Kentucky's fifth triumph without a loss and third straight in a showdown week's test. Earlier, the Ruppmen had disposed of the likes of Duke and Southern Methodist.

Averages 43 Points

Robertson, the "Big O" of top-ranked Cincinnati, led all scorers with a 35.1 average as a sophomore last year. In three games so far, Oscar has been traveling at a 43-points a game pace, including his 42-point show in Cincy's 106-86 whipping of Marshall of the Mid-American Conference Saturday night.

Like others before them, the Marshall defenses were set up especially for Oscar. The Big O met it head-on, hitting 15 of 25 field goal attempts and flipping in 12 of 16 free throw tries.

Except for Kentucky and Robertson, the new season already has that old look of upsets and uncertainties.

West Virginia Upset

The weekend nominees included Virginia's startling 75-72 upset of fourth-ranked West Virginia (5-1), and a 56-54 victory over Notre Dame for a Wisconsin club that had lost 11 in a row.

Paul Adkins' 25 points led Virginia, which had won only one of five starts and was considered the doormat of the Atlantic Coast Conference. Wisconsin was so unhappy with Bud Foster, in his 25th year as Badger coach, that he was hung in effigy Friday night. Bob Barneson's 19 points triggered the upset of the Irish, who are considered as good as any in the Midwest this time around.

Jayhawks Stopped

Besides St. Louis and West Virginia, Kansas was the only other member of the AP's top 10 to lose during the week. The Jayhawks, hurtin' without Wilt Chamberlain, sprawled in a big way—losing to Denver, UCLA and on Saturday night to Southern California, 68-55.

Third-ranked Kansas State had a couple of West Coast squeakers to make its record 4-0, nipping San Francisco 53-52 Saturday after easing past California 68-65. Mississippi State, now 5-0, piled up points at the freethrow line to nip Murray (Ky) 63-62.

North Carolina State, No. 5, Tennessee, No. 6, and 10th-pegged Northwestern were idle Saturday.

If there are replacements moving up into the charmed circle they'll likely come from among Xavier of Ohio, Pitt, Bradley, St. Joseph's (Pa), Tulane, Texas A&M, North Carolina, and Auburn.

Pitt Beats Dukes

Xavier's Musketeers, with much the same outfit that won the National Invitation Tournament last March, made it 4-0 Saturday with an 80-58 romp over Detroit. Pitt won the Steel Bowl Tournament with a 71-56 whipping of Duquesne. Bradley and St. Joseph's gave the Madison Square Garden fans a good show, Bradley with a 71-66 victory over a good St. John's (NY), and St. Joe in a 92-57 rout of Manhattan.

Tulane won its fourth straight, 61-51 over Texas and the Texas Aggies (4-0) showed good balance in toppling Centenary 68-57. Auburn, with an 11-game streak that is the longest of the big schools, and North Carolina did not play Saturday but both have perfect records so far.

Tigers Whip Navy

Niagara, Syracuse and Princeton are eastern possibilities. Niagara, 3-0, bounced Fordham 63-52, Syracuse edged Canisius 71-70, and Princeton whipped previously unbeaten Navy 86-64 with the same skill that brought it a 36-point victory over Temple earlier in the week.

In games regionally televised, Georgia stopped South Carolina 76-72 and Iowa rallied for a 75-73 victory over Texas Tech. It was the Hawkeyes' 81st straight triumph over a non-conference opponent on their home court.

San Diego Wins

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — The San Diego Marine Corps Recruit Depot defeated Camp Lejeune (North Carolina), 62-22, Sunday in the Leatherneck Bowl to capture the mythical all - Marine football championship.

The free - scoring game was played before an estimated 20,000 fans at Balboa Stadium.

Barons Name Pilot

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Lamar "Skeeter" Newsome, a veteran of 28 years in baseball including 12 in the majors, Sunday was signed to a one-year contract to manage the Birmingham Barons of the Southern Association.

Newsome takes over the reins relinquished by Cal Ermer.

AILING since mid-September, Willie Hoppe, the 71-year-old former billiards champ, is in a Miami hospital where he is undergoing treatment for a heart condition. Hoppe, the "Boy Wonder" of billiards, retired in 1955. (Central Press)

Rams Conquer Packers, 34-20

Aerial Wizardry Big Factor In Win

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A gallant Green Bay underdog team threw a scare into the Los Angeles Rams, but the aerial wizardry of the Rams crushed them in the final game of the season Sunday, 34-20.

Cinching a tie for second place with the Chicago Bears in the National Football League Western Conference, the Rams were faced with a tight ball game until the final four minutes of the battle.

Rookie quarterback Joe Francis from Oregon State for the first time played almost the entire game for the Packers, and kept the Rams in hot water with his optional runs and passes.

Most of the excitement was jammed into one minute and 55 seconds of the second quarter.

Quarterback Billy Wade started it for the Rams with a pass and run by Del Shofner that went for 43 yards and a touchdown. Francis a few seconds later lofted a 50-yard pass to veteran Max McGee, who leaped to catch it on the goal line and had to fight off two Ram defenders to hold on to the ball.

On the first play after the following kickoff, Wade and halfback Jon Arnett combined on another spectacular aerial maneuver that went for 75 yards.

This tied the score at 14-14, and before the quarter ended Paige Cothren broke it with a 10-yard field goal and the Rams were never behind again.

Racing Car Skids, Three Persons Die

BAHIA BLANCA, Argentina (AP)—Three persons were killed and 13 injured Sunday when a racing car skidded out of control and struck a crowd of fans watching the start of the last lap of the Argentine Grand Prix.

The driver of the car, Manuel Mantinian, and his mechanic, Patricio Bruno, were hospitalized with injuries.

The accident occurred as the cars started out for the final 1,000 kilometer (621) mile leg to Buenos Aires. Mantinian's car failed to make a turn near a city park jammed with spectators and plowed into the crowd.

Juan Galvez won the 5,491 kilometer race with a time of 39 hours, 50 minutes, 28 seconds.

Rathman Hangs Up Records In Peru

LIMA, Peru (UPI)—Jim Rathman of Miami, Fla., driving a Ford, won the "Circuito Atocongo" car race Sunday breaking the race and lap records.

Rathman was he only American in the 41 car field. All the other racers were South Americans. Chilean Sergio Neder was second and Peruvian Eduardo Dibos was third, both with Fords.

Rathman and co-pilot I. Pagan covered the 633-miles of the race in 6 hours, 8 minutes, 42 seconds and 2 tenths, for an average speed of 109.358 miles an hour to break the record of Peru's A. Alsurado, 6:33:38.0.

They broke the other record with a clocking of 12 minutes and 11 seconds on the 11th lap, breaking the record of Peru's J. Sarmiento, 13:22.

West Virginia And Richmond Clash Tuesday

Plays In Kentucky Invitational Friday

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —Coach Fred Schaus and his West Virginia Mountaineers return to the Southern Conference here Tuesday against Richmond before defending their Kentucky Invitational crown Friday and Saturday at Lexington, Ky.

The Mountaineers dropped their first game in six starts Saturday night in Charleston, bowing to a determined band of Virginia Cavaliers, 75-72, before a full house of 6,500 in the capital city's new Civic Center.

West Virginia leads the conference with a 3-0 record and will be seeking its 40th successive SC triumph and 26th in a row on the Mountaineer fieldhouse court.

Richmond owns a 1-2 conference mark and is 4-2 on the season after it spanked VMI 82-39 on Saturday at Richmond.

The Mountaineers will meet Oklahoma State in the first round of the Kentucky Invitational while the host Kentucky Wildcats face Ohio State. The losers play the first game on Saturday and the winners the second.

West Virginia, last winter's regular - season national champion, knocked off North Carolina in the KIT finals 75-64 to end a 37-game winning streak for the Tarheels.

Kentucky, last season's NCAA champ, is unbeaten this season and turned back St. Louis University 76-57 Saturday for its fifth in a row.

Redskins Top Eagles, 20-0

Losers Gain Only 7 Yards Rushing

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Redskins' little Eddie Le Baron connected with rookie Bill Anderson on a 71-yard last-period scoring pass play for the frosting on a 20-0 victory Sunday over the punchless Philadelphia Eagles.

The Redskins achieved their first shutout since 1955.

It was Gene Brito day at Griffith Stadium, and the Redskins' brilliant defensive end justified the occasion with another smashing performance on his retirement from the National Football League.

The Eagles could not move on the ground and veteran passer Norm Van Brocklin was so ineffective in the first half that Sonny Jurgensen took over at quarterback. Jurgensen contrived the only Philadelphia scoring threats on long passes, but each time the Redskins buckled down and forced Bobby Walston to attempt field goals which missed.

The Eagles netted only seven yards on the ground.

Sam Baker kicked the Redskins ahead in the first quarter with a 30-yard field goal and booted another from 18 yards in the second.

Ralph Guglielmi, subbing for Le Baron, then pitched Washington into touchdown position and Ed Sutton carried two yards for the score—aided by Don Bosseler's clear-the-way block.

Le Baron returned in the second half and practically assured himself of the NFL passing title with his long strike to Anderson.

From his own 29 Le Baron hurled to Anderson, who caught it on the run at Philadelphia's 45 and outraced linebacker Bill Hudson to the end zone.

Washington—TD, Sutton (2 run), Anderson (71 pass from Le Baron), FG, Baker 2 (30, 18), PAT, Baker 2.

Hunters Slay 173 Antlerless Deer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Maryland hunters killed 173 antlerless deer during Saturday's 9½ hour season in four Eastern Shore counties, Chief Game Warden George B. Shields said Sunday.

This was far greater than the 47 killed during last year's abbreviated season.

Shields said Somerset County reported 15 kills, Wicomico 12, Dorchester 50 and Worcester 96.

About 3,600 hunters were issued permits this year to shoot the does and fawns, but some of these lost their eligibility for the short season because they bagged bucks during the regular shooting season.

Tittle's Passing Beats Baltimore Colts, 21-12

'Frisco Winds Up Coach Albert's Tenure With Win

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Veteran quarterback Y.A. Tittle engineered three touchdown drives Sunday as the San Francisco 49ers wound up their season and Frankie Albert's tenure as coach with a 21-12 victory over the Baltimore Colts.

Baltimore, Western Conference champion and which next plays for the National Football League title Dec. 28, didn't collect a touchdown until one minute and 40 seconds remained in the game.

Until then, when Johnny Unitas passed 38 yards to Jim Mutscheller, the only Baltimore tallies were field goals of 48 yards by Bert Rechichar and 28 by Steve Myhra.

After their touchdown, the Colts worked an on-side kickoff and penetrated to the 49er 24 as the game ended.

An unruly crowd streamed onto the field and police, with a patrol wagon on the gridiron, broke it up. Attendance was 58,334.

The Colts had clinched the Western Conference crown two weeks ago with a victory over the 49ers in Baltimore. The 49ers finished fourth, a position they would have held, win or lose, for a 6-6 season. Baltimore had a 9-3 record, including losses in the last two. They will have to wait until next week's Cleveland-New York game to know their title game opponent.

The Colts took a 3-0 lead on Rechichar's field goal but fell behind when Tittle's 8-yard touchdown pass to Clyde Conner culminated a 51-yard drive in the second period.

The 49ers never again were headed in their final game under Albert. Their former star quarterback and head coach for the past three seasons announced his resignation Friday.

San Francisco led 7-6 at the half and drove 83 and 80 yards for touchdowns in the third and fourth periods. Reserve fullback J. D. Smith scored both, from one-inch out and from the 3-yard line.

Gordy Soltau booted all three conversions.

Baltimore	3	3	0	6—12
San Francisco	0	7	7	7—21

Baltimore TD — Mutscheller 58 pass from Unitas. FG, Rechichar (48), Myrha, 28.

49er TD—Conner 8 pass from Tittle. Smith (2) 1-inch plunge and 3 plunge. Soltau, PAT, 3.

Syracuse Wins Seventh Straight

DETROIT (UPI)—The red hot Syracuse Nationals romped to their seventh straight National Basketball Assn. victory Sunday defeating the Detroit Pistons 101-95 in the nationally televised game of the week.

The loss snapped a four-game win streak by Detroit and dropped them three games behind leading St. Louis in the Western Division race.

Mount St. Mary's Wins Sunday Game

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y. (AP) — Mount St. Mary's of Emmitsburg, Md., defeated Adelphi 68-62 and Hofstra whipped Loyola of Baltimore 71-52 in a college basketball doubleheader Sunday.

Bert Sheing paced the Mount St. Mary's attack with 22 points, four of them coming in the final 36 seconds of play to sew up the victory. The Mounties had beaten Hofstra Friday night in the opening twinbill of a week-end court invasion of Long Island by the two Maryland teams.

Cops $2,000 Prize With 4-Round 272

SANFORD, Fla. (AP) — Large George Bayer of Glen Eagles, Ill., powered, putted and scrambled his way to a 68 to win the $2,000 top prize Sunday in the $15,000 top prize Sunday in the $15,000 Sanford Open Golf Tournament by one stroke.

His four-round total was 272.

Bayer's three under par performance Sunday was his fourth straight sub par round, and in 272 was 12 under par for the 72 holes.

Giants Win, 13-10, Force Playoff For Eastern Title

Summerall's Goal Beats Cleveland

Pat's 49-Yard Kick Breaks Tie In Last Period

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Pat Summerall's booming 49-yard field goal on a frozen turf through a driving snowstorm climaxed a spectacular New York comeback drive, gave the Giants a "must" 13-10 victory over the Cleveland Browns Sunday.

The Giants victory forced a playoff for the National Football League's Eastern Conference title in New York next week.

63,192 Attend Game

The dramatic triumph, witnessed by 63,192 wildly happy Yankee Stadium spectators, was the Giants' second over the Browns, in this last game of the regular season. It tied the two teams with nine victories and three defeats. The winner of next week's game will meet the Western Conference Champion Baltimore Colts for the league championship Dec. 28 at the home of the Eastern Division winner.

Trailing 10-3 after three periods, the Giants tied the score early in the final quarter when Frank Gifford, on an option play, tossed a seven-yarder to end Bob Schnelker into the end zone. Summerall converted to make the score 10-10.

Not man. of the chilled fans would have given a plugged nickel for the Giants' chances after Summerall missed a field goal attempt from the 31 with the score still tied and 4½ minutes remaining. All Cleveland had to do was retain possession the rest of the way. That would have given the Browns a tie and the division title.

Summerall was near tears as he accepted congratulations in the clubhouse for the game-winning field goal.

"I never thought I'd get a second chance after I blew that shorter one," the seven year veteran from Arkansas said. "Some of the guys on the bench, though told me when I came back that they'd get the ball back and let me try again."

Giants Coach Jim Lee Howell appeared calm on the surface.

"How can a guy get excited the way we've been playing 'em the last few weeks."

Fourth Vin In Row

It was the Giants' fourth consecutive victory, all must games, after losing to Pittsburgh five weeks ago.

The Giants needed a break to win this one and they got it when Milt Plum, the Browns' sophomore quarterback of Penn State, fumbled early in the fourth quarter. Andy Robustelli, the Giants' defensive end, recovered on Cleveland's 45.

Gifford, who had been held in check on the ground by a combination of some vicious Cleveland tackling and the slippery going because of a game-long snowstorm, put the Giants in scoring position with a 39-yard optional heave to Kyle Rote. That placed the ball on the Browns' six. On third down and seven to go, Gifford ran to his right, saw no opening, and made a jump pass into the waiting arms of Schnelker, who was standing in between the goal posts.

Cleveland	7	3	0	0—10
New York	0	3	0	10—13

Cleveland—TD, Brown (65, run). FG, Groza (22). PAT, Groza.

New York—TD, Schnelker (7, pass from Gifford). FG, Summerall 2 (46, 49). PAT, Summerall.

NEW YORK (AP)—Althea Gibson, the "double slam" winner of women's tennis, again is ranked No. 1 among American women players for 1958.

The women's rankings, released Sunday by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn., do not become official until they are approved by the USLTA annual meeting at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Jan. 17.

The tall, strong girl from Harlem, who plays a man's game of tennis, won the Wimbledon and United States women's championships for the second time in 1958.

Mrs. Beverly Baker Fleitz, a Long Beach, Calif., housewife and mother of two daughters, achieved the No. 2 ranking on her comeback effort after being out of competition more than a year. SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

THE GRAY EAGLE is dead but all of us who had association with him during his great baseball life will remember him, not only as a truly outstanding player, but a teacher of the sport he learned so well.

Tris Speaker, who was a Cleveland institution as player and manager and good-will ambassador, is remembered by most people for his great center-fielding and his timely hitting in a 20-year career as a player.

But when he was not playing, he was talking baseball and teaching it to many of our major league players of today.

While Tris was a star of yesterday, he was a modern thinker and we shall always remember his comments about hitting habits of players today.

"Today," he told us in an interview sometime ago, "the players all want to kill the ball. You can't teach 'em to get that bingle. I always tell 'em to sacrifice but they want to hit and they're swinging for the fences.

"We used to score one run with a bunt and leave a man on base. But today the hitter is given the take sign and he swings and swings hard."

Tris told us several times that "it's difficult to teach a man how to hit unless he has some natural ability.

"You can pick out faults," he continued, "that he can't see. A player can develop a fault which he can't recognize. What throws a batter off more than anything else is overstriding. Loss of timing is the cause of a slump and you can tell a batter that he has lost it."

WE REMEMBER Tris telling us about how he "studied" to be an outfielder, becoming one of the greatest of all time.

"I didn't become one overnight," he said. "I played in the big leagues for eight years before I was called a good one. You have to study all the time, and you can learn every day.

"I used to watch the batter and his swing. I started doing this after Cy Young took me out on the practice field and hit me fungoes. I got to know where Cy was going to hit by watching his batting stride.

"I did the same thing in the outfield. I watched the batters and if they reached a certain arc in their batting swing I knew that it would go to right or left and knew that the power to hit it farther was gone. Thus I could get a good jump on the ball and could catch up with it much easier."

GOOD ADVICE from the top.

But Tris Speaker, the Old Gray Eagle who is no more, was always the tops, as a player and teacher of the game he loved.

Bears' Last Ditch Rally Sinks Lions

Two Touchdowns In Final Quarter Win Game, 21-16

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears scored two touchdowns in the final quarter Sunday to nip the Detroit Lions, 21-16, in frigid, snow-swept Wrigley Field.

A crowd of 38,346 saw Willie Galimore ramble for 36 yards and a touchdown with 3:21 left in the final quarter to give the Bears a come-from-behind victory in the National Football League finals.

A little more than three minutes later, the Bears regained possession of the ball and went 53 yards for the final score with Galimore bolting over left tackle and then circling the field for a touchdown.

Until the final nine minutes of play, it appeared that the Lions would have no trouble in closing the season with a victory. Three field goals by tackle Jerry Perry and a 42-yard touchdown pass from Tobin Rote to Dave Middleton had the Lions in front, 16-7, before Chicago's rally.

The Bears were limited to only four yard rushing in the final half. They lost the ball five times on fumbles and had little to show except for a 19-yard touchdown pass from Brown to Bill McColl in the second quarter. Other than that, it was Detroit in command until the final nine minutes.

Detroit	3	10	3	0	—16
Chicago Bears	0	7	0	14	—21

Detroit—TD, Middleton (42 pass from Rote). PAT, Perry. FG, Perry 3 (28, 11, 18).

CHICAGO BEARS—TD, McColl, (19 pass from Brown), Anderson (30 pass from Brown), Galimore (36 run). PAT, Blanda 3.

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI)—It's a different breed in major league baseball today and few players are content to "kill" the winter the way so many old-timers did by grabbing a shotgun and heading for the hills when the season ended.

Most of the older players are hustling at off-season jobs, some leading to permanent careers. And it's back to school for a flock of the kids with solid ideas about the future to buy the family groceries until baseball's tremendous pension plan backs them up in years to come.

There are the "executive types" like Stan Musial, Ted Williams, Mickey Mantle, and Yogi Berra who plunked some of their baseball loot into major business ventures.

And then there's the college-trained type like Bob Friend of the Pirates, who spent nearly 10 years finishing up at Purdue but finally qualified for a dandy career in Pittsburgh with a mutual fund investors organization.

Go Back To School

Art Ditmar of the Yankees is back at American International of Springfield, Mass., studying business administration. Moe Drabowsky, Cub pitcher signed off the Trinity College campus at Hartford, Conn., is finishing a similar course at his old school.

Pitchers Arnie Portocarrero of the Orioles and Ralph Terry of the Athletics headed back to Kansas City University this winter. Eddie Bressoud of the Giants is at UCLA. Fred Kipp of the Dodgers enrolled for work at Colorado State and Billy Moran of the Indians went back to Georgia Tech.

Others with school in mind include Ted Kazanski of the Phillies at the University of Detroit, Cub pitcher Bob Anderson at Western Michigan, Al Pilarcik of Baltimore at Valparaiso, Ind., and Bob Hale of the Orioles at Chicago Teachers College.

As for the others, they're working at a wide variety of jobs with selling, public relations and operating a private business the most popular fields.

Concentrates On Fishing

One star, of course, concentrates on fishing during the off-season but he makes it pay off—and well. That's Ted Williams of the Red Sox who has his own tackle business in Florida and gives angling exhibitions.

Generally, the clubs help players line up off season work for athletes who want to make a year-round home in the city they represent on the baseball field.

Some athletes, like Herb Score of the Indians, actually work for their ball club during the winter.

Owner Arnold Johnson of the Kansas City Athletics has done more spadework on this off-season business than most. He instituted an aptitude test for his players to determine what careers they might be suited for best and helped them with job-placement.

But even with higher salaries and a pension fund the old-timers didn't have, the modern major leaguer has his eye on the future.

Referee Gallops 6½ Miles During Basketball Game

SEATTLE (AP)—Just how far does a referee gallop while chasing basketball players from hoop to hoop?

"Six" said Al Lightner Sunday, "and a quarter miles."

Al, who is sports editor of the Salem, Ore., Statesman when not pursuing athletes, could prove it. He wore a pedometer while whistling the background music for a game between the Denver Truckers and Seattle Bakers of the National Industrial Basketball League.

As Lightner said "It gets to be a long evening."

Giants Win, 13-10, Force Playoff For Eastern Title

Summerall's Goal Beats Cleveland

Pat's 49-Yard Kick Breaks Tie In Last Period

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Pat Summerall's booming 49-yard field goal on a frozen turf through a driving snowstorm climaxed a spectacular New York comeback drive, gave the Giants a "must" 13-10 victory over the Cleveland Browns Sunday.

The Giants victory forced a playoff for the National Football League's Eastern Conference title in New York next week.

63,192 Attend Game

The dramatic triumph, witnessed by 63,192 wildly happy Yankee Stadium spectators, was the Giants' second over the Browns, in this last game of the regular season. It tied the two teams with nine victories and three defeats. The winner of next week's game will meet the Western Conference Champion Baltimore Colts for the league championship Dec. 28 at the home of the Eastern Division winner.

Trailing 10-3 after three periods, the Giants tied the score early in the final quarter when Frank Gifford, on an option play, tossed a seven-yarder to end Bob Schnelker into the end zone. Summerall converted to make the score 10-10.

Not man, of the chilled fans would have given a plugged nickel for the Giants' chances after Summerall missed a field goal attempt from the 31 with the score still tied and 4½ minutes remaining. All Cleveland had to do was retain possession the rest of the way. That would have given the Browns a tie and the division title.

Summerall was near tears as he accepted congratulations in the clubhouse for the game-winning field goal.

"I never thought I'd get a second chance after I blew that shorter one," the seven year veteran from Arkansas said. "Some of the guys on the bench, though told me when I came back that they'd get the ball back and let me try again."

Giants Coach Jim Lee Howell appeared calm on the surface.

"How can a guy get excited the way we've been playing 'em the last few weeks."

Fourth Vin In Row

It was the Giants' fourth consecutive victory, all must games, after losing to Pittsburgh five weeks ago.

The Giants needed a break to win this one and they got it when Milt Plum, the Browns' sophomore quarterback of Penn State, fumbled early in the fourth quarter. Andy Robustelli, the Giants' defensive end, recovered on Cleveland's 45.

Gifford, who had been held in check on the ground by a combination of some vicious Cleveland tackling and the slippery going because of a game-long snowstorm, put the Giants in scoring position with a 39-yard optional heave to Kyle Rote. That placed the ball on the Browns' six. On third down and seven to go, Gifford ran to his right, saw no opening, and made a jump pass into the waiting arms of Schnelker, who was standing in between the goal posts.

Swept Wimbledon, U.S. Net Titles

NEW YORK (AP)—Althea Gibson, the "double slam" winner of women's tennis, again is ranked No. 1 among American women players for 1958.

The women's rankings, released Sunday by the U.S. Lawn Tennis Assn., do not become official until they are approved by the USLTA annual meeting at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Jan. 17.

The tall, strong girl from Harlem, who plays a man's game of tennis, won the Wimbledon and United States women's championships for the second time in 1958.

Mrs. Beverly Baker Fleitz, a Long Beach, Calif., housewife and mother of two daughters, achieved the No. 2 ranking on her comeback effort after being out of competition more than a year. Darlene Hard of Monetbello, Calif., advanced to the No. 3 ranking from fourth last year. Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Forest Hills, N.Y., dropped back to fourth.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By Walter L. Johns, Central Press Sports Editor

THE GRAY EAGLE is dead but all of us who had association with him during his great baseball life will remember him, not only as a truly outstanding player, but a teacher of the sport he learned so well.

Tris Speaker, who was a Cleveland institution as player and manager and good-will ambassador, is remembered by most people for his great center-fielding and his timely hitting in a 20-year career as a player.

But when he was not playing, he was talking baseball and teaching it to many of our major league players of today.

While Tris was a star of yesterday, he was a modern thinker and we shall always remember his comments about hitting habits of players today.

"Today," he told us in an interview sometime ago, "the players all want to kill the ball. You can't teach 'em to get that bingle. I always tell 'em to sacrifice but they want to hit and they're swinging for the fences.

"We used to score one run with a bunt and leave a man on base. But today the hitter is given the take sign and he swings and swings hard."

Tris told us several times that "it's difficult to teach a man how to hit unless he has some natural ability.

"You can pick out faults," he continued, "that he can't see. A player can develop a fault which he can't recognize. What throws a batter off more than anything else is overstriding. Loss of timing is the cause of a slump and you can tell a batter that he has lost it."

WE REMEMBER Tris telling us about how he "studied" to be an outfielder, becoming one of the greatest of all time.

"I didn't become one overnight," he said. "I played in the big leagues for eight years before I was called a good one. You have to study all the time, and you can learn every day.

"I used to watch the batter and his swing. I started doing this after Cy Young took me out on the practice field and hit me fungoes. I got to know where Cy was going to hit by watching his batting stride.

"I did the same thing in the outfield. I watched the batters and if they reached a certain arc in their batting swing I knew that it would go to right or left and knew that the power to hit it farther was gone. Thus I could get a good jump on the ball and could catch up with it much easier."

GOOD ADVICE from the top.

But Tris Speaker, the Old Gray Eagle who is no more, was always the tops, as a player and teacher of the game he loved.

Bears' Last Ditch Rally Sinks Lions

Two Touchdowns In Final Quarter Win Game, 21-16

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears scored two touchdowns in the final quarter Sunday to nip the Detroit Lions, 21-16, in frigid, snow-swept Wrigley Field.

A crowd of 38,346 saw Willie Galimore ramble for 36 yards and a touchdown with 3:21 left in the final quarter to give the Bears a come-from-behind victory in the National Football League finals.

Trailing 16-7 in the final quarter, the Bears ended an 80-yard march when quarterback Ed Brown fired a 30-yard touchdown pass to Ralph Anderson.

A little more than three minutes later, the Bears regained possession of the ball and went 53 yards for the final score with Galimore bolting over left tackle and then circling the field for a touchdown.

Until the final nine minutes of play, it appeared that the Lions would have no trouble in closing the season with a victory. Three field goals by tackle Jerry Perry and a 42-yard touchdown pass from Tobin Rote to Dave Middleton had the Lions in front, 16-7, before Chicago's rally.

The Bears were limited to only four yard rushing in the final half. They lost the ball five times on fumbles and had little to show except for a 19-yard touchdown pass from Brown to Bill McColl in the second quarter. Other than that, it was Detroit in command until the final nine minutes.

Detroit	3	10	3	0	—16
Chicago Bears	0	7	0	14	—21

Detroit—TD, Middleton (42 pass from Rote). PAT, Perry. FG, Perry 3 (28, 11, 18).

CHICAGO BEARS—TD, McColl, (19 pass from Brown), Anderson (30 pass from Brown), Galimore (36 run). PAT, Blanda 3.

As fan No. 1,000,000, La Porte and his wife will attend the Nation Football League playoff game between the Baltimore Colts and the Eastern Division champion at the expense of the Rams.

NEW YORK (UPI)—It's a different breed in major league baseball today and few players are content to "kill" the winter the way so many old-timers did by grabbing a shotgun and heading for the hills when the season ended.

Most of the older players are hustling at off-season jobs, some leading to permanent careers. And it's back to school for a flock of the kids with solid ideas about the future to buy the family groceries until baseball's tremendous pension plan backs them up in years to come.

There are the "executive types" like Stan Musial, Ted Williams, Mickey Mantle, and Yogi Berra who plunked some of their baseball loot into major business ventures.

And then there's the college-trained type like Bob Friend of the Pirates, who spent nearly 10 years finishing up at Purdue but finally qualified for a dandy career in Pittsburgh with a mutual fund investors organization.

Go Back To School

The beef against pro baseball, in grabbing youngsters off the college campus, is that few such undergraduates ever finish their schooling. Yet, many of them at least are trying.

Art Ditmar of the Yankees is back at American International of Springfield, Mass., studying business administration. Moe Drabowsky, Cub pitcher signed off the Trinity College campus at Hartford, Conn., is finishing a similar course at his old school.

Pitchers Arnie Portocarrero of the Orioles and Ralph Terry of the Athletics headed back to Kansas City University this winter. Eddie Bressoud of the Giants is at UCLA. Fred Kipp of the Dodgers enrolled for work at Colorado State and Billy Moran of the Indians went back to Georgia Tech.

Others with school in mind include Ted Kazanski of the Phillies at the University of Detroit, Cub pitcher Bob Anderson at Western Michigan, Al Pilarcik of Baltimore at Valparaiso, Ind., and Bob Hale of the Orioles at Chicago Teachers College.

As for the others, they're working at a wide variety of jobs with selling, public relations and operating a private business the most popular fields.

Concentrates On Fishing

One star, of course, concentrates on fishing during the off-season but he makes it pay off—and well. That's Ted Williams of the Red Sox who has his own tackle business in Florida and gives angling exhibitions.

Generally, the clubs help players line up off season work for athletes who want to make a year-round home in the city they represent on the baseball field.

Some athletes, like Herb Score of the Indians, actually work for their ball club during the winter.

Owner Arnold Johnson of the Kansas City Athletics has done more spadework on this off-season business than most. He instituted an aptitude test for his players to determine what careers they might be suited for best and helped them with job-placement.

But even with higher salaries and a pension fund the old-timers didn't have, the modern major leaguer has his eye on the future.

Referee Gallops 6½ Miles During Basketball Game

SEATTLE (AP)—Just how far does a referee gallop while chasing basketball players from hoop to hoop?

"Six" said Al Lightner Sunday, "and a quarter miles."

Al, who is sports editor of the Salem, Ore., Statesman when not pursuing athletes, could prove it. He wore a pedometer while whistling for the background music for a game between the Denver Truckers and Seattle Bakers of the National Industrial Basketball League.

As Lightner said "It gets to be a long evening."

Television and Radio

by John Crosby

The trouble with the George Burns show, to put it as simply as possible right at the outset, is that Ronnie Burns is no substitute for Gracie Allen. I hurriedly add that this is not meant to undersell Ronnie. He could quite conceivably make a marvellous substitute for somebody else, say Ricky Nelson, or maybe even Tony Perkins. But not Gracie.

Gracie is — I can think of no other way to put this — funny. Ronnie — I can think of no other way to put this either — isn't. He's a lot of other things. He's personable. He's charming. My spies among the teen-age set tell me he sings uncommonly well. But funny he ain't and that puts the Burns show seriously out of kilter because laughs are what they're striving for.

The plots are outlandish. Ronnie is incessantly trying to get an acting job for one of his girl friends by preposterous stratagems. Or Harry Von Zell is trying to land a secretarial job for his extraordinarily nubile girl friend or Blanche Morton, George's secretary, is wildly misunderstanding something she hears over the telephone. And just as I get to muttering to myself that these plots are just too implausible to hold any degree of credibility, I recollect that they are no more implausible, probably less so, than the ones Gracie got away with for some thirty years.

The difference is — well — Gracie. In her own little sunlit and improbable world, everything became possible and even sweetly reasonable. But Gracie is gone and we'll just have to make the best of it. I'm not sure they are making the best of it.

In this show, George is cast as an agent. At least, I guess that's what he is. It's hard to tell. Much of the time he and a pained pianist are at the piano, with George singing in his notorious voice some blessedly awful old songs such as "Hello, Central, Give Me No Man's Land." He never gets more than a phrase or two out before something intervenes. Ronnie brings a girl friend in. Or Blanche Morton misunderstands something. Or Harry Von Zell pokes his head in.

Burns, with his bland and imperturbable face, keeps singing and escorts them to the door. At least once the entrant was Jack Benny, looking wonderfully young and well, and then the old age jokes flew thick and fast. In this particular episode, Ronnie Burns — misunderstanding again — thought his father was preparing to go back in vaudeville and make a fool of himself and he wailed to Benny: "Dad's going back into show business and everyone will laugh at him."

And Benny says soothingly: "Well, no one has laughed yet so why should they start now."

Somewhere along about the middle of the show, George wanders out to the camera and does one of his monologues. These are delicious sometimes, but not as delicious as the ones about Gracie used to be. George Burns has a wonderfully fey and fresh humor of his own and this particular show has not brought it out the way I expected. Maybe it'll take a little time. After all, when a man employes infinite variations on a single joke — Gracie — for thirty-five years, it takes a little while to break in a new joke.

At the moment the writers seem determined to drape Gracie's mantle on Blanche Morton (Bea Benaderet) where it doesn't fit very well. "You know how George feels about me," says Harry Von Zell to Blanche. "Oh, sure, but I'd let you in anyway," says Blanche — but without quite the ring of sheer dizzy conviction Gracie would have given it.

I feel a sense of strain. Lines like "You might be to butterflies what John Wayne is to horses" sound as if somebody had made them up. You're not supposed to think of those things. The canned laughter on this show, incidentally, is especially intense and unlikely.

At one point Tony Martin, a guest of the week, says to Ronnie: "Ronnie, where did you get all these tricks?"

"When mother retired, she left them to me."

But the trouble is, she didn't.

And just as I get to muttering to myself that these plots are just too implausible to hold any degree of credibility, I recollect that they are no more implausible, probably less so, than the ones Gracie got away with for some thirty years.

The difference is — well — Gracie. In her own little sunlit and improbable world, everything became possible and even sweetly reasonable. But Gracie is gone and we'll just have to make the best of it. I'm not sure they are making the best of it.

In this show, George is cast as an agent. At least, I guess that's what he is. It's hard to tell. Much of the time he and a pained pianist are at the piano, with George singing in his notorious voice some blessedly awful old songs such as "Hello, Central, Give Me No Man's Land." He never gets more than a phrase or two out before something intervenes. Ronnie brings a girl friend in. Or Blanche Morton misunderstands something. Or Harry Von Zell pokes his head in.

Burns, with his bland and imperturbable face, keeps singing and escorts them to the door. At least once the entrant was Jack Benny, looking wonderfully young and well, and then the old age jokes flew thick and fast. In this particular episode, Ronnie Burns — misunderstanding again — thought his father was preparing to go back in vaudeville and make a fool of himself and he wailed to Benny: "Dad's going back into show business and everyone will laugh at him."

And Benny says soothingly: "Well, no one has laughed yet so why should they start now."

Somewhere along about the middle of the show, George wanders out to the camera and does one of his monologues. These are delicious sometimes, but not as delicious as the ones about Gracie used to be. George Burns has a wonderfully fey and fresh humor of his own and this particular show has not brought it out the way I expected. Maybe it'll take a little time. After all, when a man employes infinite variations on a single joke — Gracie — for thirty-five years, it takes a little while to break in a new joke.

At the moment the writers seem determined to drape Gracie's mantle on Blanche Morton (Bea Benaderet) where it doesn't fit very well. "You know how George feels about me," says Harry Von Zell to Blanche. "Oh, sure, but I'd let you in anyway," says Blanche — but without quite the ring of sheer dizzy conviction Gracie would have given it.

I feel a sense of strain. Lines like "You might be to butterflies what John Wayne is to horses" sound as if somebody had made them up. You're not supposed to think of those things. The canned laughter on this show, incidentally, is especially intense and unlikely.

At one point Tony Martin, a guest of the week, says to Ronnie: "Ronnie, where did you get all these tricks?"

"When mother retired, she left them to me."

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The jewel roves, but frequently rests high on the bodice.

Jewels Are Shifty These Days

The Empire-Directoire trend with its raised waistline look has made accessory designers delightfully imaginative. Especially jewelry creators, who are providing the right touch to give the new silhouettes the upward glance. The larger jewel seems to be the favorite.

On its design, as well as its placement, depends the dramatic impact which jewelry gives the costume. And, it does yeoman's service in accenting the raised waistline, cropped jackets, high-placed pockets or bows. Some jewels are so much on the up and up that they are pinned on a headband for a bright-headed look.

There are just a few general thoughts to keep in mind as far as balancing the jewel to the figure. The principles are very simple. A pin placed high on the bodice will seem to give the wearer added height. A woman with a heavy figure should avoid a small, delicate pin and select large ornamental designs.

Any woman of charm knows that her fashion sense grows apace when she places an individual touch on what she wears. She also knows that a jewel gives distinction to her costume—whatever the fabric, unless it passes the limits of taste into eccentricity. The part of a woman's costume that attracts most attention is her jewelry. However chic the dress or suit or costume, however striking the shoes or hat roving eyes will return to and be held by the important jewel.

WEEKLY BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—With both sides vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠63 ♥AQ1095 ♦AQ10 ♣KJ9
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	2 ♦

What do you bid now?

A.—Double. Your hand should produce at least the equivalent of the defensive book and anything partner can add will be so much gravy. A big demerit to any one who bids two no trump.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠J ♥Q943 ♦AK2 ♣A10643
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds. An immediate jump to four hearts does not do full justice to this holding which is worth 17 points in support of hearts. By making a forcing bid in diamonds and following it up with a heart raise, partner will get a complete picture of your values.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠A83 ♥Q52 ♦106 ♣J7432
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 NT.	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. While it is our practice sometimes to raise one no trump on only seven points plus a five card suit, we would never do it on such a shabby suit as this. Partner requires too good a fit to make it a reasonable gamble.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠6 ♥A52 ♦AQJ ♣K108643
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	2 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. This looks like a complete misfit and one more bid could get you overboard. While it is true that you have adequate protection in the unbid suits no trump seems unsound, for you have no place to develop tricks. Partner's hand figures to be at least as unbalanced as yours.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠J7653 ♥KQ864 ♦3 ♣Q10
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♦	1 ♥	Pass
Pass	2 ♣	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Unfortunately there is no convenient action open to you. If partner had a very good hand he would have reopened the bidding with either a double or a jump bid, so game seems to be out of the question. Furthermore, his bidding indicates that you could expect very little spade support from him.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠Q10 ♥AK32 ♦KQJ97 ♣K8
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—This is a close call between two no trump and two hearts with a slight preference for the former. This hand falls a point short of the textbook requirements for the jump rebid in no trump (19 points), but it possesses the compensating feature of a good five card suit plus the fitting Q-10 in partner's suit.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠76 ♥AK863 ♦AQ98 ♣A5
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
4 ♥	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Five diamonds. Partner's jump to game after his initial pass indicates a hand that in support of hearts may be revalued at 14 or more points which with your 20 points could spell a slam. A Blackwood bid would be pointless because of the worthless doubleton in spades. If, over five diamonds, partner merely returns to five hearts you may decide to pass.

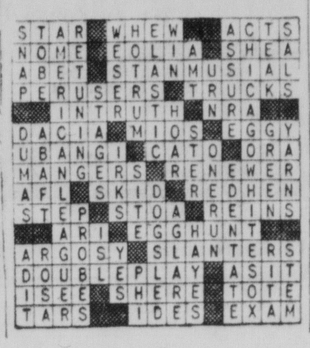

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠AJ10875 ♦6 ♣KQ9643
The bidding has proceeded:

East	South

What do you bid?

A.—Two clubs. This is admittedly irregular, but the call is made in anticipation of conserving space. The auction will likely reach four hearts before it gets back to you again and you will find that had you chosen to overcall with one spade originally, you would now be forced to bid five clubs. With the initial overcall in clubs, however, you can conveniently bid four spades and offer partner a choice of suits one level lower.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Jewels Are Shifty These Days

This, we all know, is a season of the shifty jewel.

The Empire - Directoire trend with its raised waistline look has made accessory designers delightfully imaginative. Especially jewelry creators, who are providing the right touch to give the new silhouettes the upward glance. The larger jewel seems to be the favorite.

On its design, as well as its placement, depends the dramatic impact which jewelry gives the costume. And, it does yeoman's service in accenting the raised waistline, cropped jackets, high-placed pockets or bows. Some jewels are so much on the up and up that they are pinned on a headband for a bright-headed look.

There are just a few general thoughts to keep in mind as far as balancing the jewel to the figure. The principles are very simple. A pin placed high on the bodice will seem to give the wearer added height. A woman with a heavy figure should avoid a small, delicate pin and select large ornamental designs.

Any woman of charm knows that her fashion sense grows apace when she places an individual touch on what she wears. She also knows that a jewel gives distinction to her costume—whatever the fabric, unless it passes the limits of taste into eccentricity. The part of a woman's costume that attracts most attention is her jewelry. However chic the dress or suit or costume, however striking the shoes or hat roving eyes will return to and be held by the important jewel.

WEEKLY BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—With both sides vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠63 ♥AQ1095 ♦AQ10 ♣KJ9
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	2 ♦

What do you bid now?

A.—Double. Your hand should produce at least the equivalent of the defensive book and anything partner can add will be so much gravy. A big demerit to any one who bids two no trump.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠J ♥Q943 ♦AK2 ♣A10643
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♥	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds. An immediate jump to four hearts does not do full justice to this holding which is worth 17 points in support of hearts. By making a forcing bid in diamonds and following it up with a heart raise, partner will get a complete picture of your values.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠A83 ♥Q52 ♦106 ♣J7432
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 NT.	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. While it is our practice sometimes to raise one no trump on only seven points plus a five card suit, we would never do it on such a shabby suit as this. Partner requires too good a fit to make it a reasonable gamble.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠6 ♥A52 ♦AQJ ♣K108643
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♣	Pass	2 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. This looks like a complete misfit and one more bid could get you overboard. While it is true that you have adequate protection in the unbid suits no trump seems unsound, for you have no place to develop tricks. Partner's hand figures to be at least as unbalanced as yours.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear son and brother Charles "Lew" Fleegle, killed in Germany Dec. 15, 1944.
A beautiful memory, a smiling face
A broken link we can never replace.
Till memory fades and life departs
You'll live forever in our hearts.
Sadly missed by his Mother, Brother and Sister

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness to us following the death of our beloved wife and mother, Mrs. Mary Harper. We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and donated the use of their cars for the funeral.
Mr. Howard Harper
and daughter, Lucille Durrett

Number Of Americans Visiting Russia Soars

LONDON (AP)—About 5,000 Americans have visited Russia in 1958—twice the 1957 total.

Moscow radio reported this Sunday and announced bright new attractions the Russian tourist agency, Intourist, is cooking up for foreign travelers next year.

There'll be vacation resorts, touring, and travelers will be able to shoot deer and goats, partridge and other wild fowl. There'll also be two health treatment sanatoriums on the sparkling Black Sea coast.

Russian "Superboy"

LONDON (AP) — Russia, which claims the world's oldest living person, now says it has a superboy. Moscow radio says the youngster, Miragalim Nigmatulin, isn't quite 4 years old but weighs 110 pounds and can lift a 36-pound weight. The radio report said the lad, who lives south of Kazakhstan in central Asia, weighed a hefty 16 pounds at birth.

Coldest Spell Since 1917

He said the temperature has been about 10.1 degrees under the normal monthly average.

Continued cold weather, cloudy skies and snow flurries are forecast today. Snow began falling here about 8 a. m. yesterday and fell rather steadily through the day and last night creating a slippery condition on local streets and area highways.

US 40 Hazardous

State Police at LaVale barracks said last night that driving was hazardous along U.S. Route 40 east and west of Cumberland. Chains were being recommended.

Cindering crews were called out yesterday, according to R. E. L. Putnam, maintenance engineer for the State Roads Commission, who said that yesterday afternoon Route 40 was about 80 per cent bare in the Grantsville area and about 50 per cent bare west of that Garrett County community.

By last night the highways were termed hazardous and motorists were being urged to use care while driving. About an inch of snow had fallen in the Oakland area yesterday leaving highways hazardous.

The official low in Cumberland yesterday was five degrees above zero while the high temperature reading was 25 degrees. At 6 p. m. yesterday the temperature was 23 degrees, according to Mr. Golden, who said about a third of an inch of snow had fallen.

West Virginia Hit

Snow blanketed West Virginia over the weekend, creating hazardous driving conditions in most sections of the state. One to two inches of snow covered most of the state yesterday after overnight temperatures fell to as low as five degrees above in the Martinsburg area.

West Virginia State Police at Romney said last night about 10 o'clock that U.S. Route 50 was slick from fallen snow which was still coming down.

Chains were advised if the snow continued, they said. The highways in the Bedford vicinity were slippery in spots according to state police who said there were snow flurries.

Christmas Toy Project Takes Much Effort

Jeannette Bonig Plans Distribution

Countless hours of work and planning have gone into the annual display of Christmas toys, which will be distributed to deserving children by the Associated Charities office here.

This week families will be given the toys and appointments are being made by Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive secretary of the local office. As usual the organization will attempt to provide one large toy and several smaller toys for each deserving child.

The Associated Charities Toy Workshop located at 13 Frederick Street has drawn favorable comment from local organizations and individuals, who have stopped by to see the display of colorful toys.

City officials have commended Miss Bonig and those who worked many hours on the toys, many of which had to be scrubbed and given a fresh coat of paint. Thousands of toys, which will brighten the Christmas of many deserving children, will be distributed.

Miss Bonig cited one example of behind-the-scene work by an individual who made a large number of stuffed toys which will gladden the heart of many children.

The woman, who works in a rural grocery store took the stuffing out of discarded toys and with the use of a glazed material, made new and exciting stuffed animals.

The Sixth Infantry Company, USMCR, in its annual "Toys For Tots" drive lent a helping hand to the Associated Charities in gathering discarded toys for repair. Other organizations also gave assistance.

Onetime Farmer Observes His 101st Birthday Here

By CHARLES H. KELLY
(News Staff Writer)

"Thank the Lord I'm still living," was the feeling expressed this weekend by Lacy William Ross, life-long resident of Midland, who celebrated his 101st birthday on Saturday.

Alert and keen of mind, Mr. Ross has been a patient in the Allegany County Infirmary since September this year. He remarked "they treat me well, and feed me good." When one of the attendants asked him how he felt, he said, "I'm feeling right good today."

While resting up from his birthday party, he glanced out the window of his room and when he saw flakes of snow falling, said, "it is kind of cool today."

He said he enjoyed his birthday very much and had a warm handshake for his well wishers. Mr. Ross, who received a number of birthday cards, said that a preacher dropped in to see him and gave him a big red apple.

His children were in to wish him a happy birthday. He is the father of ten children, four of whom are still living. They are Simeon Ross, Midland; Mrs. Lora Shimer, Eckhart; Mrs. Clara Miller and Mrs. Cleatus Miller, both of Westernport.

The ladies in the kitchen at the infirmary baked Mr. Ross a cake and had it appropriately decorated.

In recalling his early days as a farmer in the Midland area, Mr. Ross said he and his wife got along just fine and it was hard work being a farmer.

He said he would farm in the summer and cut timber during the winter months. He and his wife raised everything they needed to eat and churned their own butter.

After a hard day's work, Mr. Ross said, he would get out his pipe and have a good smoke. In later years he decided to quit smoking. Many an evening he and the family had a lot of fun singing together.

Mr. Ross said he belongs to the Methodist Church in Midland and that his father, the late Salem Ross, was a local minister and held prayer meetings at the house.

His mother was the late Ellen (Dye) Ross. Mr. Ross remarked that Christmas is less than two weeks off and that he would have to study over what he wanted Santa Claus to bring him.

A sage bit of advice by the 101 year old man is the "best way to live is in peace with everybody." Mr. Ross is believed to be the oldest resident of Allegany County.

Firemen Plan Youth Dances

Firemen of Bedford Road Volunteer Fire Company are planning to provide recreation facilities for the young people of the area by sponsoring a "Fire House Hop" on Friday evenings beginning January 2.

David Ferguson is chairman of the project and is being assisted by Richard Van Fleet, Charles Gillum, Robert Gillum and Roger Heavner.

The dances will be open to the public and the minimum age is 14, according to Mr. Ferguson, who said a small admission will be charged each week. The dance will be from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. with music being provided by high fidelity stereophonic recordings.

Refreshments will be available during the evening. Plans for the new project were completed on Monday evening at the annual Christmas party held for volunteers and their families. Santa Claus put in his appearance.

The firemen feel the need of recreation for the young people and decided upon the weekly dances at the fire hall. Proceeds will be used toward the maintenance of the fire fighting equipment.

Meter Collections Are $39,651.89

There was an increase in police and traffic docket violations in Cumberland during the past fiscal year in comparison to the previous year, according to the annual report of the Police Department.

In a 26-page report, Chief R. Emmett Flynn pointed out that in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1958, there were 1,900 police docket violations. The previous year showed 1,525 such violations.

Some 12,531 traffic docket violations were recorded in the fiscal year ending June 30 in comparison to 10,984 the previous year.

Police docket fines in 1958 totaled $5,963 as compared to $8,529 the year previous. Traffic docket violations in 1958 were $12,940.40 compared to $10,955 the year previous.

Democrats Study Various Appointments

Central Committee Screens Applicants

The November 4 election which resulted in the Democratic party taking political control of the state of Maryland and of the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, opens up avenues of political patronage to the Democrats, which they have not enjoyed for many years.

A spokesman for the Democratic State Central Committee said last night that the committee has met and discussed a number of possible recommendations for appointments, however, only four endorsements have been made formally.

The committee, at their last meeting, endorsed Edward J. Ryan, local attorney, as their choice for appointment to the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverage License Commissioners, to succeed Delegate-elect Estel C. Kelley.

Collectors Endorsed

At the same session of the committee, endorsements were given William B. Orndorff, 106 Humbird Street for the position of county tax collector, William Kelly, Lonaconing, and Edward J. Flanigan, Frostburg, as assistant collectors.

It was pointed out that under the new law governing collections of taxes in Allegany County, the assistant tax collectors will be required to visit the various communities and larger centers of population for a fixed number of days to collect taxes. This disposes of the old method of having people visit Frostburg, Lonaconing or Cumberland to pay their taxes. In effect, the two assistant collectors will be "traveling" collectors, working out of the central office at the Court House.

Details of this new tax collection organization will be worked out by the Board of County Commissioners, who must pass a resolution setting up the duties, personnel and salaries of the tax department.

The committee spokesman noted that John R. Kelly, Maryland Avenue, who has been serving as a machine custodian for the eelction board, was recently elevated to the position of registrar, vacated by C. William McDermott who retired at age 70.

The committee discussed the possibility of naming Mr. McDermott to one of the two Democratic posts on the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors, but took no formal action. It was noted that the Democrats now have minority representation on the election board with one member, Matthew J. Mullaney, holding that appointment.

The Democrat victory in Maryland now gives the Democratic party majority representation, or two seats on the election board. Thus, the committee reasoned, with the organization of a new board, there will be two places for Democrats.

In addition to applications from Mr. McDermott and from Mr. Mullaney for reappointment, the committee has a number of others who have expressed an interest, it was stated.

Post Discussed

Also discussed as possible recommendations were the appointment of Graydon S. Dunlap, Greene Street, as custodian of voting machines.

The Democratic committee has taken no formal action on recommendations for trial magistrates to be named throughout the county, and has taken no action on naming an attorney for the election board, or a clerk to the election board, although there have been several applications for these posts.

The most sought after appointment was the liquor board assignment, which went to Mr. Ryan, although there have been applications sent to committee members for appointments in all parts of the county. Committee members noted that a number of applications have been received asking for "an appointment" but setting forth no particular job or qualifications.

Democratic committee spokesmen said the committee is making an effort to consider the requirements of each available position, the qualifications of applicants to competently fill these assignments, with special attention to loyal party members who have worked and supported the party. There is considerable sentiment among the committeemen, it is reported, to give special consideration to those who have been candidates for office on the Democratic ticket. Through the years, it was stated, many Democrats have spent their time and money as candidates for office and have suffered the humility of defeat. Indication of this attitude is noted on the part of the committee recommendation of Mr. Flanigan and Mr. Dunlap who were defeated in this election for the House of Delegates, and Mr. Ryan who was an unsuccessful candidate for Congress and for circuit judge a few years ago.

The committee plans to meet sometime in January.

Flu Fire Checked

East Side firemen yesterday afternoon checked a flue fire at 430 Columbia Street. They said considerable damage was caused in the fire which was reported at 4:45 p. m.

Snow Leaves Area Roads Hazardous

Coldest Spell Since 1917

Robert R. Golden, weather observer here, said last night he went back through 40 years of weather records to learn that the current cold spell of the past several days is about the worst for December since 1917.

He said the temperature has been about 10.1 degrees under the normal monthly average.

Continued cold weather, cloudy skies and snow flurries are forecast today. Snow began falling here about 8 a. m. yesterday and fell rather steadily through the day and last night creating a slippery condition on local streets and area highways.

US 40 Hazardous

State Police at LaVale barracks said last night that driving was hazardous along U.S. Route 40 east and west of Cumberland. Chains were being recommended.

Cindering crews were called out yesterday, according to R. E. L. Putnam, maintenance engineer for the State Roads Commission, who said that yesterday afternoon Route 40 was about 80 per cent bare in the Grantsville area and about 50 per cent bare west of that Garrett County community.

By last night the highways were termed hazardous and motorists were being urged to use care while driving. About an inch of snow had fallen in the Oakland area yesterday leaving highways hazardous.

The official low in Cumberland yesterday was five degrees above zero while the high temperature reading was 25 degrees. At 6 p. m. yesterday the temperature was 23 degrees, according to Mr. Golden, who said about a third of an inch of snow had fallen.

West Virginia Hit

Snow blanketed West Virginia over the weekend, creating hazardous driving conditions in most sections of the state. One to two inches of snow covered most of the state yesterday after overnight temperatures fell to as low as five degrees above in the Martinsburg area.

West Virginia State Police at Romney said last night about 10 o'clock that U.S. Route 50 was slick from fallen snow which was still coming down.

Chains were advised if the snow continued, they said. The highways in the Bedford vicinity were slippery in spots according to state police who said there were snow flurries.

Countless hours of work and planning have gone into the annual display of Christmas toys, which will be distributed to deserving children by the Associated Charities office here.

This week families will be given the toys and appointments are being made by Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive secretary of the local office. As usual the organization will attempt to provide one large toy and several smaller toys for each deserving child.

The Associated Charities Toy Workshop located at 13 Frederick Street has drawn favorable comment from local organizations and individuals, who have stopped by to see the display of colorful toys.

City officials have commended Miss Bonig and those who worked many hours on the toys, many of which had to be scrubbed and given a fresh coat of paint. Thousands of toys, which will brighten the Christmas of many deserving children, will be distributed.

Miss Bonig cited one example of behind-the-scene work by an individual who made a large number of stuffed toys which will gladden the heart of many children.

The woman, who works in a rural grocery store took the stuffing out of discarded toys and with the use of a glazed material, made new and exciting stuffed animals.

The Sixth Infantry Company, USMCR, in its annual "Toys For Tots" drive lent a helping hand to the Associated Charities in gathering discarded toys for repair. Other organizations also gave assistance.

Housing Agency Requests Bids For Demolition

The Cumberland Housing Authority is requesting bids for furnishing all materials, equipment and labor necessary for the demolition and clearing of the site in the Oldtown Road - Lamont Street area for the third low-rent housing project.

Bids will be received until 3 p. m. Monday, December 29, at the Housing Authority's office, First Street and Memorial Avenue. Proposed forms of contract documents, including drawings and specifications, are on file at the office of S. Russ Minter, local arthitect.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech and other city officials have been complaining for some time about the unsightliness of the abandoned houses on the proposed housing project site. Just last week, Mayor Keech asked the assistance of U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall in expediting action on the razing of the buildings which constitute a fire hazard.

That was 40 fewer than the 13,089 who were served at Thanksgiving time last year. Last month's special luncheon also was served to between 700 and 800 adults.

Now the cafeteria managers are preparing for the special Christmas luncheon, which will be served in most schools Wednesday. Mrs. Eaton has written the managers suggesting a menu including fruit juice or tomato juice, roast turkey and dressing, whipped potatoes with gravy, cole slaw or frozen vegetable, cranberry sauce, roll and butter, Christmas cookie and milk.
